Wilmington shocked by terrorism

Searching for the words

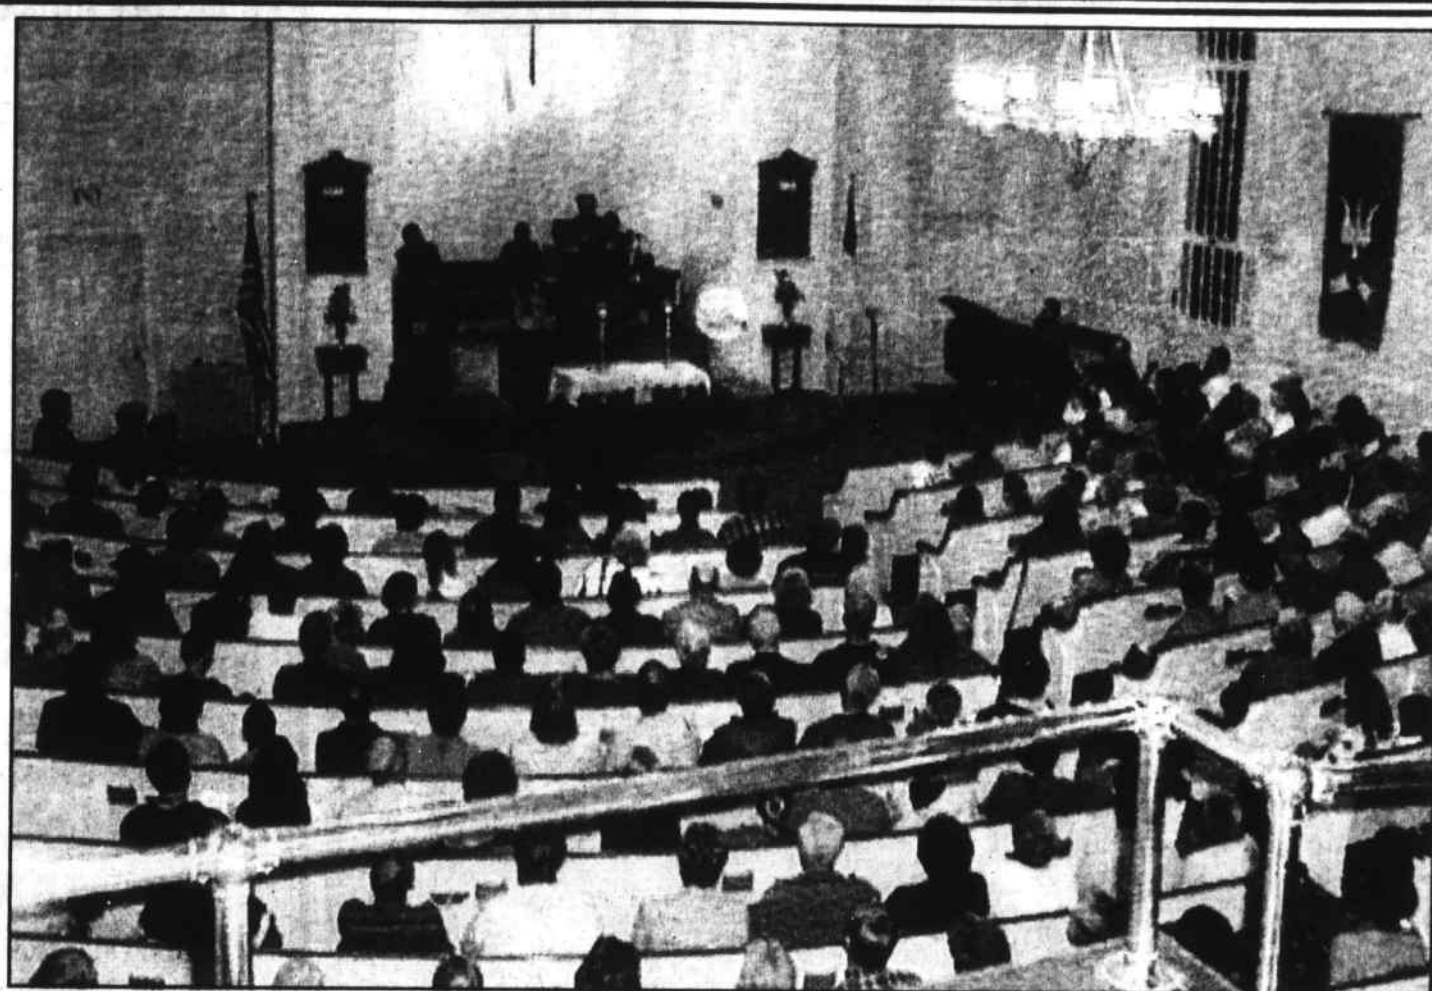

By STACEY E. STEVENS

WILMINGTON - Only eight short days ago - looking back, it seems like a lifetime - we were talking about summer's end, the construction on Route 38, our children's back-to-school schedules, and the holidays to come. Suddenly, without any warning, on Tuesday, September 11, America was dealt a sure, swift, and fatal blow which rocked our country to its very foundations. Airplanes from Logan Airport struck the New York World Trade Center's twin towers and the Pentagon building in our nation's capitol, killing thousands upon thousands, leaving families bereft, and striking fear and disbelief into American hearts that this could and did happen here.

Indelibly etched in our consciousness forevermore will be where we were and what we were doing when we learned of the news. Once the horrible reality had become undeniably clear due to unrelenting radio announcements and television footage, folks frantically began telephoning, searching for loved ones who had been either traveling out of Logan that morning or doing business in the areas involved. For many, the unthinkable has already happened; they and we are left desperately trying to make sense of and deal with the loss, the grief, the tragedy. Even now, countless others are still waiting to hear the very news that they dread most.

In the midst of the shocked

HEALING AND MAKING SENSE OF IT ALL. Hundreds of Wilmington residents, seeking answers and comfort, attended an interfaith service at the Congregational Church on Middlesex Avenue on the night of Friday, September 14. The hour-long service was filled with prayers, hymns and the words of the community's religious leaders. (Stu Neilson photo)

Communities unite to lend a hand

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

WILMINGTON - Amid the dust and debris of the horrible tragedy in New York rises an increasingly strong spirit of unity among Americans. It is a spirit of patriotism and humanity, and it is alive and well and surging in both Tewksbury and Wilmington.

In Wilmington, the police and fire departments are asking donors to contact the Red Cross, local churches and the Salvation Army to see how they can help through those organizations.

One of the members of the Wilmington Fire Department is in New York now. He is working with the critical incident stress debriefing team and has been there for a week to assist in counseling on post traumatic stress and other conditions caused by severe trauma.

ma. "We are referring donations to the Massachusetts Emergency Management Association right now," says Fire Chief Daniel Stewart. The department is considering several ideas to help, including donating blood in some way. "The only request from New York is for critical incident people. Everyone is on stand-

Community mourns loss of Tewksbury men

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

TEWKSBURY - Our lives intertwine with so many other people that we never know just how intricate are the bonds that we create until one of them is broken. The tragic losses of Peter A. Gay, Peter P. Hashem, Kenneth Waldie and Herb W. Homer at the hands of suicidal hijackers who slammed their planes into the World Trade Center towers last week devastated more than the gentlemen's immediate families. It cut through the heart of a community.

Mr. Gay, a 54-year-old Tewksbury resident for more than 15 years, was active in the local community, supported the United Way, participated in activities at the Sacred Heart Church in Lowell, and was an active member of the Sons of Italy. His work at Raytheon Company, as vice president of operations, earned him respect and admiration from co-workers.

Born and raised in Taunton, Mr. Gay graduated from Monsignor James Coyle High School with the class of 1964 and went on to Northeastern University, where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering in 1969.

Right after college graduation, he began working at Raytheon in Andover.

Mr. Gay also owned a home in Pocasset on Cape Cod, which he enjoyed and visited frequently. Boating was one of his favorite things to do, as was participating in the annual Falmouth Road Race.

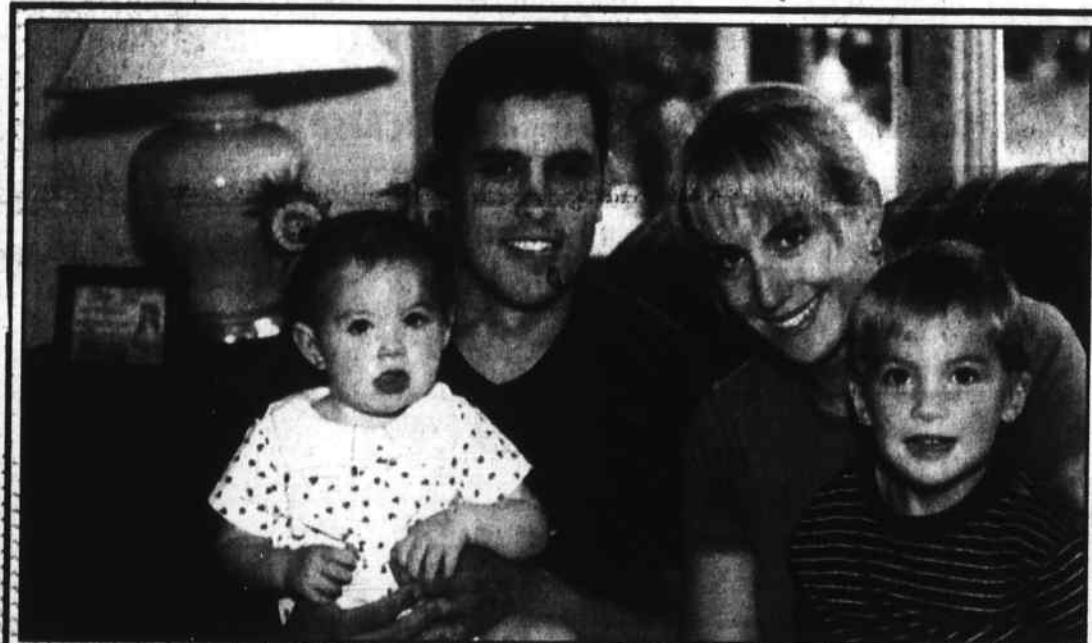

He leaves behind his wife, a daughter and two sons, his father and five brothers and an entire community.

Peter P. Hashem, 40, also a Tewksbury resident, was an employee of Teradyne, Inc., a semiconductor firm in Boston.

HOME SAFE. Dion DeJesus, second from left, and his wife, Colleen, second from right, endured a handful of sleepless, hungry days and nights as they tried to make their way home from Europe when tragedy struck the United States early last week. How a local couple got home

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Get home. Those two words, simple to say and straight to the point, stood front and center in the minds of Wilmington couple Dion and Colleen DeJesus when they discovered on Tuesday, September 11 that the United States of America was under attack.

Those two words occurred to many of us when we first heard the tragic news about four hijacked planes that had crashed into the twin towers of the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and a small field in Pennsylvania. We strongly ached to be alongside those most important to us, so that we could face down the horror together. Lots of us picked up a phone. Most of us left work and headed home.

For the DeJesuses, that wasn't so easy. They were in Europe.

"We were at the airport in Brussels when a woman came out of a terminal and began to say something about planes being shot down from Boston," says Dion. "She was a little hysterical, so it wasn't until another woman came around that we found out what was really happening back home. My wife collapsed. At that point, we knew that all airports in America were closed, so I was thinking that we had to get to Canada."

The DeJesuses had flown to Europe on Thursday, September 6, and had spent the days that followed travelling to France, where they attended the French Nationals, a premier dog show in Cerilly, and the Netherlands, where they met a breeder who might possibly be able to help them with Zeuss, their dogue de Bordeaux who has won three dog show championships. On Tuesday, September 11, the couple fig-

Flag stolen

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

TEWKSBURY - Somebody's patriotism has gotten out of hand.

Last week, Elizabeth Kingsley, who lives on Pratt Street in Tewksbury, did what millions of other Americans have done in the days since tragedy struck the United States on Tuesday, September 11. She hung her American flag on the fence that encircles her yard.

Before the weekend was through, it was stolen.

"I can't believe someone stole it," says Kingsley as she fights back tears. "That flag means more to me and my family than anyone could ever know."

The flag belonged to her father, who was a veteran of World War II. When he died 29 years ago, the flag was draped over his coffin. For Kingsley, that flag represents her last memory of the day on which her father was laid to rest.

"I remember when the flag was officially handed to my mother," says Kingsley. "She sobbed and gave it to me as a memento of my Dad. It was

by Joyce Brisbois

ABOUT YOUR STOCK OPTIONS

Stock options may offer great get-rich opportunities to employees or a big tax problem if you buy or sell them at the wrong time.

Most common are nonqualified stock options, sort of like cash bonuses, but what they are worth depends on when you exercise them. They cost nothing up front, and the longer you hold the options, the more they are worth. Once you exercise them, that is when you buy the stock, the difference between the special option price and the market price is taxable income. A broker can "flip" the options, selling the shares immediately.

When to exercise the options may depend on several factors—when you need money, whether you need to diversify your holdings and, most importantly, if the options are about to expire.

Incentive stock options are quite different; their gains may be taxed as capital gains, and may trigger Alternative Minimum Tax. Get expert help in managing them.

What's the tax picture on your options? Get expert help from the tax professionals at

American Stories

It is incredibly hard to believe that a little more than a single week has passed since four hijacked planes crashed into the World Trade Center, the Pentagon and a small field in Pennsylvania. These acts of unholy terror murdered thousands of innocent people and forced upon unsuspecting Americans a new, complex age of unrest, outrage, fear, pride and resolve.

We all have cried, sometimes softly behind quiet tears, often uncontrollably in riveting fits of anguish and pain.

We all have felt angry, sometimes in silent rage, often in white hot, bloodthirsty desire for justice and retribution.

We all have been afraid, sometimes in nervous, edgy titters that chilled our spine, often in nightmares about faceless monsters, loved ones lost, and dark clouds of destruction.

We all have welled up with pride, sometimes nodding righteously upon hearing strong, assuring words from the president, often smiling patriotically at the sights of a waving flag, a shining candle, an act of heroism.

And we have all heard stories, some of them told by us, most of them shared with us.

There are so many stories, so many epics of heartbreak and tragedy, close calls and decency.

On Tuesday, I received a call from a man, a plumber here in town, who spoke to me through words choked with bleary tears and struggling pauses. He wanted to tell me about John Dolan, a gentleman here in Wilmington who lives on Marjorie Road. Earlier in the afternoon, this man paid a visit to the home of Mr. Dolan and fixed a leaky pipe in his house. The job, said the plumber, took less than an hour. The visit lasted two and a half hours. The two men talked, American to American, and the man shared with Mr. Dolan his distress about not being able to find a flag to buy and call his own. He had looked everywhere, he told Mr. Dolan, but at every store he went the last Old Glory had long since been sold. Mr. Dolan, moved by the plumber's frustration and sadness, walked back to his house, unhooked the American flag that was affixed to his porch, marched to the plumber's truck, and fastened the red, white and blue to its antenna. "I want you to have my flag," he told his new friend. "It is better to have it on your truck, where people all throughout town can see it, than it is to have it hanging at my house, which is on a dead end."

That's just one story. Here at the Town Crier, we also received a call from Carol McGinn at the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, whose nephew, firefighter Bob Vassallo, Junior, and his friend, fellow firefighter Chuck Taylor, are going down to Manhattan to search for survivors and clear the rubble. Later on the same day, we heard from a mother, who told us about her son, Hugh O'Beirne, who worked as a lawyer on the 59th floor of the World Trade Center. The life of O'Beirne was spared in the tragedy, for he had been running late for work that Tuesday morning. He was not spared, however, from standing at his train stop in Hoboken and staring across the Hudson River and witnessing the numbing horror of two of the world's tallest buildings collapsing into fiery cauldrons 110 stories below.

These, of course, are stories of patriotism, service and escape. There are, tragically, even more tales, ones of loss, sacrifice and trauma.

We work through our grief in a variety of ways. Some of us keep to ourselves and restrict our expression to whispered prayers, personal writing or tears shed alone. Others, though, need to talk, to reach out, to share, to vent, which explains why we at the Town Crier have received enough letters to the editor, poems and photographs to last us the next few issues.

If you are so inclined, we wish to hear from you. Write us a letter. Send us a poem. Draw us an illustration. Drop by with a picture. Already we have received such things in tremendous supply, yet in the face of such overwhelming abundance we have vowed to try and publish every single bit of it.

We have one special request. Here at the office, we have adopted a policy by which we will not attempt to contact and, therefore, disrupt anyone who has lost a family member or close friend in this tragedy. At the same time, though, we want to encourage such people to contact us, if they wish, and share with us some of the things that made their loved ones' lives special. The thoughts and prayers of all of us are with the families and friends of Peter Gay and Peter Hashem, two Tewksbury residents who perished aboard the hijacked planes.

Thank you, readers, for all that you have shared so far. And take very good care during these deeply troubled times.

Poem

Valiant Firefighters

You are our family, our friends.
You walk among us each day.
We laugh, we play, we talk
But there is much we do not say.

We do not offer praise enough
Until tragedy strikes and you are there.
When our city, our country, our people
Are in danger - you quickly appear.

Without hesitation or perceptible fear,
You plunge full scale into harm's way
To conquer fires, to search and rescue,
To recover citizens or comrades each day.

While we do not always tell you
How much you're in our hearts
As your valiant efforts keep us safe,
You sacrifice much when trouble starts.

Our streets are now a war zone,
To many battles you've been called.
The scenes are grim and gruesome
As we stare at them appalled.

Through all the smoke-filled rubble
You sift and search for days
While all the waiting public
Looks on and hopes and prays.

We pray you find survivors
Of this senseless act of war
As we watch your valiant struggle
Like none has fought before.

We see your tired bodies
So battered, weak and worn
But in you we see a spirit
Shine bright and not forlorn.

Letters to the Editor

Condolences from our good friend in England

EDITOR'S NOTE: Many of you fondly remember Michael Kean-Price, our friend from England who is the official Town Crier of Tewksbury, England. Last September, Kean-Price flew here to America, donned his official uniform and attended Tewksbury's Homecoming Weekend. He stood about and loudly, very loudly in fact, proclaimed the news of the hour to festival-goers. As proof that last Tuesday's horror and tragedy was felt deeply around the world, Kean-Price has written to us and shared with us his grief, and the grief of our Mother Country. This Town Crier thanks that Town Crier for his kind words from overseas.

My dear friends in Tewksbury: When I was a boy, my parents asked friends "where were you on VE Day, VJ Day or the day when King George VI died?" In later generations, such questions were asked in regards to the deaths of JFK or Princess Diana. However, 50 years from now, all of these points of time reference will be forgotten, totally overshadowed by the events of Tuesday September 11th.

People will just say "where were you when it happened?" There will be no need to mention a day, month or year or even the location, for the world has never known an event like it.

On the actual day I had just returned home from work at about 1 p.m. our time. Not long after, my wife Linda rang me from her office at Tewksbury Borough Council to ask if I had heard any bad news from America. There was a rumour going around her department to the effect that an airplane had hit the World Trade Centre. It sounded like the start of a sick joke, but because of the concern in her voice

I switched on the TV and watched those now-familiar scenes of the second plane colliding with the building. On phoning Linda back, the general office background noise at her work was silenced when she repeated "My God, it's true! Michael's in tears on the phone!" Once Michael had put the phone down, everybody started talking at once, all finding it impossible to believe. The rest of the day, no one felt like working. They were all stunned by the sheer scale of the disaster.

After putting down the phone, I just sat in front of the television, transfixed like a rabbit in the car's headlights, unable to move or to comprehend what I was seeing. At 3 p.m. our time, I went upstairs to my study and phoned The Town Crier. I just had to speak to Americans I knew and simply say "I'm so sorry, I am lost for words, and has the world finally gone mad." Stu, Shawn and John all took time out to speak to me, even though they may have preferred to have been left alone to think things out quietly in their own way.

We all have our own ways of dealing with this, and mine is to reach out and somehow share the hurt. Even now, a full seven days later, I find it almost impossible to put into words the distress I feel for the people of America.

This last Sunday, the 16th, was Battle of Britain Sunday, and we gave thanks for those brave pilots who Winston Churchill called "the gallant few" that fought so bravely 61 years ago. As we all gathered in the Abbey Church in Tewksbury, my eyes moved from the service sheet and sought out those familiar stained glass windows and memorial tablets that honour the brave deeds of decent people down through the centuries. What a contrast to the few fanatics who wrought such destruction and devastation to some many in New York City, Washington and Pennsylvania. Many world leaders, including your own President George W. Bush, have described these events as a declaration of war against democracy, the west, Christianity and freedom. I would go further. This is an unprovoked assault on mankind itself and is the most heinous crime in modern history.

As we left the Abbey on Sunday, people had already left floral tributes by Mico Kaufman's wonderful sculpture, Touching Souls. The book of remembrance in the Lady Chapel of the Abbey already had numerous signatures, and this is repeated throughout Britain. Many churches of all denominations have notices outside stating they are open for anyone who wishes to come in and pray. Our Town Mayor, Councillor Brian Calway, has already sent a letter of condolence to the Board of Selectmen in Tewksbury. It is indeed fitting that he, as a former member of the Queen's Guard and senior police officer, should send our tribute and thoughts over to you all.

You can be assured of the continued love, support and prayers from your sister town of Tewksbury, England.

Letter to the Editor

September 11 tragedy not a punishment from God

Dear Editor:
I was shocked this past week to hear two national Christian leaders suggest that the tragedies which struck our country on September 11 were a punishment from God for America's immorality. On Friday evening, September 14, while attending a service sponsored by the Wilmington Council of Churches, I shuddered, as did many others, to hear someone pray about the punishment vested on us by God for our wayward ways. This person went on to list some of the issues which divide religious communities in America.

Whatever positions we hold on various social issues, this is no time for Americans or Christians to start turning on one another. This is exactly what terrorism hopes to accomplish, for terror can bring out the worst or the best in people. Nor is this a time to invoke images of a punishing God.

The God that I have come to know weeps with us, comforts us, and fills us with the courage to defend our beloved country. Surely God knows our sins, but God also knows that Americans are a people of great faith and are champions for freedom and peace. Whatever its faults, America is a great society. It is sad to think that some of our religious leaders would divide us in this time of crisis.

Sincerely yours,
Rev. Joseph T. Pinho

ured that they'd drive to the airport in Brussels, turn in their rental car, and spend the night relaxing at their hotel before flying back to the states on Wednesday morning.

The world, alas, had other plans.

Says Dion, "I figured that Canada was the key. I thought that if my wife and I made it to our airport, then I could call my friends and my family and we'll all figure something out. However, when we did get to the hotel, I tried the phones, and I couldn't get through to anybody. We called as many as 20 numbers and all of them were busy."

That trip to the hotel was a hairy one. Traffic was jammed for miles and bridges and certain routes were being shut down. It was clear, says Dion, that Belgium, like all of the other countries of the world, was terrified that it too was vulnerable to a terrorist attack of its own. More than anything, Dion and Colleen wanted to be home, in America, in Wilmington, with their two children, Tyler, age 3, and Hailey, who is not quite one year old.

At one point, Colleen was able to get through to the answering machine of her stepmother, Suzanne Cushing. Moments after leaving a dire message, the couple was able to get through to the cell phone of Colleen's father, Jim Rooney, who, incidentally and thankfully, was with Cushing at a travel agency, where they were booking tickets for a flight that would take Dion and Colleen to England. (Belgium and France had cancelled all flights to America.)

The DeJesuses rushed from their hotel to the airport in Brussels, scooped up their reserved tickets after some computer complications at the customer service desk, and flew through uncertain skies to Heathrow, England on Wednesday morning.

"When we landed in the U.K. we went to the desk at the airport for Air Canada," says Dion. "We had all our tickets and confirmation numbers, but nobody could help us because the computers at the airport were down."

Enter Shirley Andrews.

"My wife and I were wondering what we were going to do when a woman came up to the counter," says Dion. "She was surrounded by ten or fifteen people, and she looked real businesslike and professional. Her name was Shirley, and when she came up to us we showed her our tickets and confirmation numbers. She smiled and told us, 'Relax. We'll get you home somehow.'"

Andrews, fully seeing and believing the information supplied to her by Dion and Colleen, was not daunted by the airport's malfunctioning computers. She took fresh, blank pieces of paper and handwrote makeshift tickets that would land the DeJesuses two seats on the first available plane to Halifax, Nova Scotia. From there, this Good Samaritan, who would later prove even more charitable to the stranded couple, instructed Colleen and Dion to go to the airport's lobby, watch the terminal screens and jump at the first available flight to show up.

Easier said than done. "I stood and stared at those screens all day on Wednesday," says Dion. "Then, at 8:30 at night, all the flights on the departure screen had been cancelled. At that point, I had no idea where my wife and I were supposed to go. We had no place to stay."

Exhausted, but not defeated, Dion and Colleen spotted a family from the Middle East that was trying to get comfortable for what would be a long night alongside a nearby flight of stairs. They joined the family, and Dion even helped them create a makeshift bed out of metal crates. While he was at it, he created ones for himself and Colleen, as well as one for an elderly couple.

"I didn't get to sleep, really," says Dion. "I just sort of sat there all night. We met some good people, though, and made quite a few friends. Employees at the airport brought blankets around. They even brought a bassinet for the Middle Eastern family's baby."

On Thursday morning, Air Canada reopened. Andrews, back at work and fresh from a night of sleep, approached Dion and Colleen and was shocked to discover that they had spent the night on uncomfortable metal crates, getting very little sleep.

"She wanted us to get something to eat, but I told her that Air Canada was our only way out of there," says Dion. "I told her that when I looked at the nearby departure screen, all I saw was my kids. I didn't want to leave that screen. My wife felt the same way."

In time, though, nothing on that screen would matter, for Air Canada, hampered by backed-up flights and patrolled by military servicemen with guns, shut down later on Thursday. For the second night in a row, Dion and Colleen, who hadn't eaten or slept or showered in two days, were faced with yet another night on a cold metal crate.

Shirley Andrews, however, was going to have none of that. In a stunning act of goodness amidst the evil and confusion that was running amok in the world, Andrews brought Colleen and Dion to her home, where they showered, ate heartily and slept soundly. When flights were cancelled on Friday, the couple even stayed at the home of a woman named Joan, who was a friend and coworker of Andrews. And it was at these two homes that they stayed, until a flight to Halifax became available days later and finally, at long last, the DeJesuses were on their way to their embattled homeland.

"Shirley was like a mother to us," says Dion. "She was like family to me and Colleen. She felt like home to me. That's why we want so badly to tell the story of how Colleen and I made it home. We want everyone to know about Shirley."

Once in Halifax, where the DeJesuses were faced with even more travel, most notably involving a ferry that was hours away in Yarmouth, that would bring them to Portland, Maine, Dion and Colleen met one final guardian angel on whose wings they would be lifted home: A cab driver, who, for $500, was completely willing to drive them all the way from Halifax to Portland. It was a cab ride that carried them through the early hours of Sunday morning. This final leg of their weary journey was brought to life by conversation and good food at rest stops. It ended when the DeJesuses met their friends from Wilmington at exit 8 on Route 65 in Portland.

By 3 a.m. on Sunday morning, five days after a tragedy that shook the world to its core, Dion and Colleen were home in Wilmington, safe, eternally grateful to be able to hold in their arms their sleeping children.

"I will never forget how lucky I am to be alive," says Dion. "All during those days that we were trying to get home, I never felt sorry for myself. I was depressed, and I hadn't eaten or slept or taken a shower, but all I could think about was what I had read in the paper about the little girl and her mother who died on one of the planes that crashed. That's just one story out of thousands, and it set me free and helped me realize how lucky I was that my wife and I were going to get home and see our kids."

It is a statement, so seared with pain and sorrow, that no doubt captures, as well, the feelings of this grief-stricken community.

How would you pay for long-term care?

Nursing Home Costs Soar

WASHINGTON - Recently released studies show that the average yearly cost for a private room in a senior care facility has risen to $55,000. And rates for facilities located near major metropolitan areas are even higher. Consider the average patient stay of 2 1/2 years, most individuals will ring up a bill of $140,000 during their stay. Figures released

No one really knows what the future holds. Which is why learning about long-term care insurance from a trained Baystate Financial Services representative at The Lowell Five is the prudent thing to do. Your Baystate representative is well-versed, and can help you find the policy best suited to help protect your assets from the ever-rising costs of assisted living and nursing home care. You may speak with a highly qualified Baystate representative at any office of The Lowell Five or in the convenience of your home. PAC to present program on Bullying and Teasing by Christine L. McGrath, teenagers.

Superintendent of Schools Monday, Sept. 24, the Tewksbury Public Schools Town Wide PAC will sponsor a program on Bullying and Teasing. The program will take place in the Ryan School cafeteria from 7 to 9 p.m. This program is a follow up to the highly successful program on bullying and teasing which we hosted last March.

The presenters for this session are Ms. Cathy Hoffman and Dr. Ulric Johnson from the Center for peaceable Schools at Lesley College. The program will emphasize practical strategies to prevent bullying and teasing in the school, home or the community. The program information will be useful to parents/guardians, teachers and members of our community who work with children, adolescents and

The program will include a presentation on those factors which create violent and peaceful home, school and community environments. The presenters will identify certain causes of bully behavior and teasing. The major focus of the evening will be on how we can create peaceful environments for our children. The session will be highly interactive and time will be provided for a question and answer period.

We are grateful to the Town Wide PAC for sponsoring this important program. We hope that you will join us on September 24 at 7 p.m. We look forward to working with you during the coming year and to providing our students with a challenging and supportive school program.

Wilmington Library Notes

by Christina Stewart

Information, support and healing

WILMINGTON - In light of the tragic events of September 11, we encourage residents to utilize the library for access to the many resources that provide information, support and healing. These resources include free internet access, databases, directories as well as books that can help with the grieving and healing process. The following are some of the books available at the library:

No Time for Goodbyes: Coping with Sorrow, Anger and Injustice after a Tragic Death by Janice Harris Lord; A Time to grieve: Meditations for Healing After the Death of a Loved One by Carol Straudacher; When Children Grieve: For Adults to Help Children Deal with Death, Divorce, Loss, Moving, and Other Losses by John W. James and Russell Friedman and Aftermath: Survive and Overcome Trauma by Mariann Hybels-Stear.

Reference books

Although the internet is a powerful information resource, a quality collection of reference books is still critical for providing authoritative answers to thousands of reference questions asked annually at the library. Often the answer can be found quickly in such core reference books as the World Almanac and the Guinness Book of World Records.

Price guides to collectibles are especially helpful. If you want to know what that Elvis Presley LP is worth, checkout the Official Price Guide to Records 2001. If you are looking to buy a used car, check it out in Lemon-Aid Car Guide 2000.

Upcoming children's program

Free tickets are still available for the Stephen Baird Concert on Wednesday, Sept. 26 at 7 p.m. Call the Children's Department at 978-694-2098 to reserve your tickets. This program for children ages two and a half and their families is funded through the Community Partnerships for Children Grant by the Massachusetts Department of Education. In the past three years, funding from this grant has made possible many educational and entertaining programs for preschool children giving them a foundation for a lifelong love of reading and learning. The library is fortunate to have again been granted $4,000 for children's programs this year.

Homebound program

With volunteer help from the Friends of the Library, a homebound delivery service is available to deliver books to residents unable to travel to the library. The service is intended to serve Wilmington residents who are permanently or temporarily homebound. Reasons could include disability or health problems. If you are interested in this service, or know anyone who might be interested, please contact Circulation Librarian Linda Callahan at 978-658-2967.

'ALWAYS FLOWN The biggest flag in Tewksbury (or Wilmington) is always flown by Jim Boudreau, but now a half mast. (Maureen Lamoureux photo)

Don't test me

Don't test me, for I am the flag of the United States of America

I am the flag of the United States of America.
My name is Old Glory.
I fly atop the world's tallest buildings.
I stand watch in America's halls of justice.
I fly majestically over institutions of learning.
I stand guard with power in the world.
Look up and see me.

I stand for peace, honor, truth and justice.
I stand for freedom.
I am confident.
I am arrogant.
I am proud.

When I am flown with my fellow banners, my head is a little higher,
my colors a little truer.

I bow to no one!
I am recognized all over the world.
I am worshiped - I am saluted.
I am loved - I am revered.
I am respected - and I am feared.

I have fought in every battle of every war for more than 200 years.
I was flown at Valley Forge, Gettysburg, Shiloh and Appomattox.
I was there at San Juan Hill,
the trenches of France,
in the Argonne Forest, Anzio, Rome and the beaches of Normandy, Guam, Okinawa, Korea and KheSan, Saigon, Vietnam know me,
I was there.
I led my troops,
I was dirty, battleworn and tired, but my soldiers cheered me
And I was proud.
I have been burned, torn and trampled on the streets of countries I have helped set free.
It does not hurt, for I am invincible.

I have been soiled upon, burned, torn and trampled on the streets of my country.
And when it's by those whom I've served in battle - it hurts.
But I shall overcome - for I am strong.

I have slipped the bonds of Earth and stood watch over the uncharted frontiers of space from my vantage point on the moon.
I have borne silent witness to all of America's finest hours.
But my finest hours are yet to come.

When I am torn into strips and used as bandages for my wounded comrades on the battlefield,
When I am flown at half mast to honor my soldier,
Or when I lie in the trembling arms of a grieving parent
at the graves of their fallen son or daughter,
I am proud.

My name is Old Glory
long may I wave.
dear God in Heaven
long may I wave.

A Moment in Time... Centuries of Courage

by Gary D. Sullivan

Tuesday, September 11, 2001 - Our country is attacked; our Congress is united in song; our President addresses the nation and throughout this "moment in time" the American people exemplify their centuries of courage.

God Bless America,

8:45 a.m. - American Airlines Flight 11 out of Logan Airport crashes into the north tower of the World Trade Center.

Land that I love,

9:03 a.m. - United Airlines Flight 175 out of Logan Airport crashes into the south tower of the World Trade Center.

Stand beside her, and guide her,

9:40 a.m. - American Flight 77 out of Dulles Airport crashes into the Pentagon.

Through the night with the light from above.

9:50 a.m. - The north tower of the World Trade Center collapses.

From the mountains, to the prairies,

10:00 a.m. - United Airlines 93 out of Newark crashes in Pennsylvania.

To the oceans, wide with hope,

10:29 a.m. - The south tower of the World Trade Center collapses.

God Bless America,

8:30 p.m. - President George W. Bush addresses the nation: "Good evening. Today, our fellow citizens, our way of life, our very freedom came under attack in a series of deliberate and deadly terrorist acts. The victims were n airplanes, or in their offices; secretaries, businessmen and women, military and federal workers; moms and dads, friends and neighbors. Thousands of lives were suddenly ended by evil, despicable acts of terror.

The pictures of airplanes flying into buildings, fires burning, huge structures collapsing, have filled us with disbelief, terrible sadness, and a quiet, unyielding anger. These acts of mass murder were intended to frighten out nation into chaos and retreat. But they have failed; our country is strong.

A great people has been moved to defend a great nation. Terrorist attacks can shake the foundations of our biggest buildings, but they cannot touch the foundation of America. These acts shattered steel, but they cannot dent the steel of American resolve.

America was targeted for attack because we're the brightest beacon for freedom and opportunity in the world. And no one will keep that light from shining.

Today, our nation saw evil, the very worst of human nature. And we responded with the best of America - with the daring of our rescue workers, with the caring for strangers and neighbors who came to give blood and help in any way they could.

Immediately following the first attack, I implemented our government's emergency response plans. Our military is powerful, and it's prepared. Our emergency teams are working in New York City and Washington, D.C. to help with local rescue efforts.

Our first priority is to get help to those who have been injured, and to take every precaution to protect our citizens at home and around the world from further attacks.

The functions of our government continue without interruption. Federal agencies in Washington which had to be evacuated today are reopening for essential personnel tonight, and will be open for business tomorrow. Our financial institutions remain strong and the American economy will be open for business, as well.

The search is underway for those who are behind these evil acts. I've directed the full resources of our intelligence and law enforcement communities to find those responsible and to bring them to justice. We will make no distinction between the terrorists who committed these acts and those who harbor them.

I appreciate so very much the members of Congress who have joined me in strongly condemning these attacks. And on behalf of the American people, I thank the many world leaders who have called to offer their condolences and assistance.

America and our friends and allies join with all those who want peace and security in the world, and we stand together to win the war against terrorism. Tonight, I ask for your prayers for all those who grieve, for the children whose worlds have been shattered, for all whose sense of safety and security has been threatened. And I pray they will be comforted by a power greater than any of us, spoken through the ages in Psalm 23: "Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil, for You are with me."

This is a day when all Americans from every walk of life unite in our resolve for justice and peace. America has stood down enemies before, and we will do so this time. None of us will ever forget this day. Yet, we go forward to defend freedom and all that is good and just in our world.

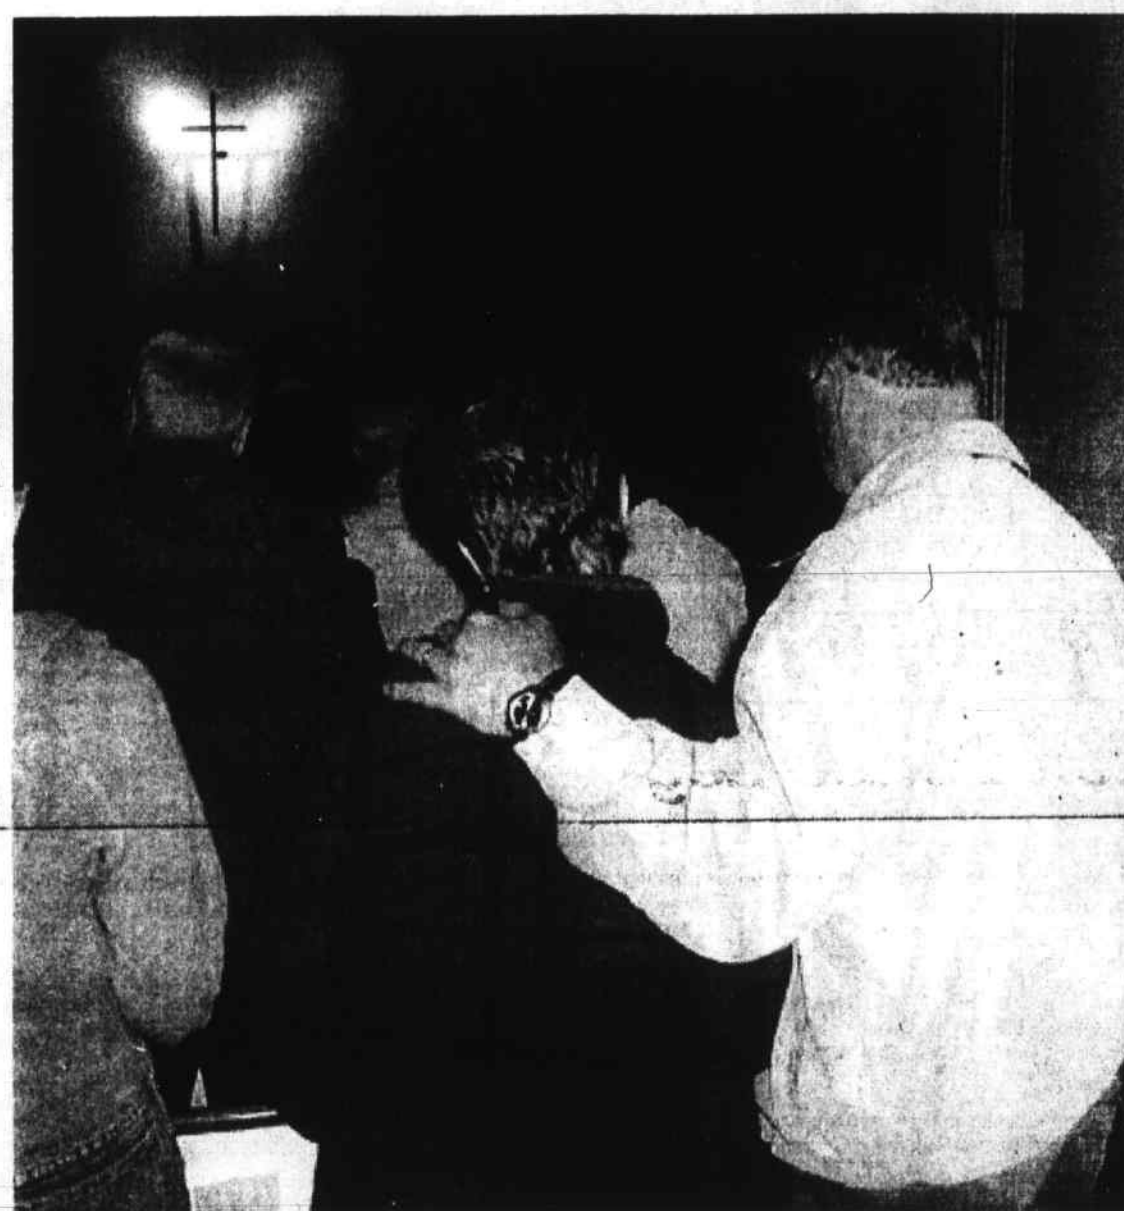

Thank you, Good night, and God bless America."

My home sweet home.

End 8:35 p.m.

We stand true and strong

May the love that this tragedy has brought to light, shine like a beacon through endless nights. They came and brought darkness to all of the world and ripped at our hearts as we watched it unfold. But we stand true and strong, united are we, for freedom we fight, for brothers are we. So listen to me as I say with a tear, GOD BLESS AMERICA, and none we shall fear. We must fight on, for those who have gone, as their spirits protect us from affliction and harm. Stand fast my brothers for this is not the end. For our Children, for our Country, for this we must mend!

Tewksbury Board of Selectmen

Sutton Brook culvert will be replaced this fall

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

TEWKSBURY - The Board of Selectmen, which held its meeting on Tuesday, September 18, began its night with a moment of silence to honor those who lost their lives in the terrorist attacks that traumatized the nation exactly one week earlier.

Once the meeting was officially under way, the following topics were discussed:

• ROGERS STREET WATER MAIN. An article is being proposed at Special Town Meeting to expend funds for water main replacement in town.

"We're proposing an expenditure of $300,000 to replace the water main between Main Street and McNeil Way," Town Manager David Cressman told the board.

According to Town Manager Cressman, there have been many water breaks along that line over the past two years, and the residents are concerned. The comprehensive data submitted in the report for this construction also supports the replacement. The South Street water line has been replaced, but several cross connections need to be completed. An article at Special Town Meeting seeks funding for that construction.

• COURT STREET ACCEPTANCE. The board accepted the small section at the end of Court Street as a public way. The approval is necessary for the development of the Emerald Court project, if that project comes to fruition, and the funds from the sale will pay for the expansion of the water treatment plant. Some residents who attended the selectmen meeting rose in opposition to it, concerned that the acceptance would involve land-taking, since the public way is a 40-foot wide strip and the pavement only covers 21 feet. The board reassured the residents that no land would be taken.

Mr. Cressman explained to the audience the difference between a public way and a travel way. The travel way, he said, is a paved way and a paved way may only be 24 feet.

The board approved the proposal with the condition that no land would be taken.

• SOUTH STREET FLOODING. Mr. Cressman detailed for the selectmen his final recommendations to the solution of the flooding on South Street.

The Sutton Brook culvert will be replaced this fall. The culvert has already been ordered, and a contractor is waiting for delivery to begin the work. Some damage occurred to a resident's land in that area, and the Department of Public Works (DPW) will take care of it. The DPW is designing a contract to expand the trestle bridge to allow one lane of traffic. Selectman Chairman Charles Coppola suggested contacting the fire chief or other authorities to devise an evacuation plan for the residents in that area and to include Reverse 911.

posal to the board to take land by eminent domain to make way for a sewer on Clark Road.

The sewer will service the new development off of Clark Road as well as the residents on Clark Road. A private party will build the sewer, but the sewer will service the public and will be turned over to the town. The developers have indicated that they have had problems obtaining easements from the land owners near the development to construct the sewer. The board is opposed to approving the taking of land and asked the town manager for more information regarding the project.

• DISTRICT MEETING. The board signed a resolution to be presented at a meeting on Saturday, September 22 in which economic, political, business and civic leaders will discuss saving the 5th Congressional District.

"It's better for us to be aligned with Lowell and Lawrence in terms of economic development regionally than for us to be aligned with cities to the south," said Mr. Coppola.

HOOD RD The Irvine family held a vigil at 7:00 p.m. Friday at their Tewksbury home on Hood Rd. Laurie and Amanda stood silently with Tara Evans to honor those who lost their lives on Tuesday. (Stu Neilson photo)

Reading/Wakefield
YMCA job openings

READING - The Reading/Wakefield YMCA currently has job openings in their childcare, aquatic and youth sports departments. The YMCA is looking for kindergarten teachers, van drivers, sports instructors, childcare aides, a preschool teacher, aerobics and swimming instructors.

The positions currently available cover a variety of times, from mornings to afternoons and evenings to weekends, with both full time and part time positions available. In some cases, the YMCA will train interested applicants.

Pete Smargon, Executive Director of the YMCA said, "it is a challenge to get competent, caring staff. In order to recruit and retain staff, the YMCA recently made health care available to staff who work 20 hours or more a week. Any, 21 and older staff member who works over 1000 hours in a year becomes part of the YMCA's retirement program, YMCA membership is included in employment. Despite the increase in benefits and the hourly wage, the YMCA is still short staffed."

Smargon said, "There is a demand for increased programming, but we can't implement some new programs because of the shortage."

Donna Griffin, aquatic director said, "The YMCA hires capable people of all ages. But we just found out that some retired adults don't consider swimming instructor jobs because they assume the YMCA would think they were too old. That's not the case. We know experienced adults make great instructors."

"Volunteers are also needed at the YMCA," said Smargon. "We need help with filing, greeting people, giving tours, helping youth with homework, and assisting in sports classes. We will train people to do various jobs."

The Reading/Wakefield YMCA has over 8,400 members from over 50 different communities in the region. The Reading/Wakefield YMCA offers programs for people of all ages, seven days a week.

People interested in employment or volunteer opportunities, are urged to contact the Reading/Wakefield YMCA at 781-944-9622 or 781-245-9622, or go down to one of our facilities and fill out an application.

disbelief, fear, and grief, America is slowly coming to. People everywhere are talking about what happened, from the neighborhoods to the marketplace, from families to businesses, from the very youngest schoolchildren to our senior citizens. People have raised their flags, lit candles and stood on doorsteps, and attended vigils, most notably an interfaith service that was held at the Wilmington Congregational Church on Friday night.

There are as many different talked to us about events in America and the world. This is a big deal, but there might be more, and if we aren't expecting it then maybe it'll come and be even worse. Only God knows what will happen next. All we can do is wait and hope and pray that nothing else happens. Meanwhile, our country needs our support. Today we wore red, white, and blue and sang patriotic songs during chapel time. We also stood out in front of the library for two hours after school, waving flags and holding a sign which says, the attack on that naval ship last year. My mom was in New York the weekend before it happened. My sister and I are very thankful that she got home beforehand."

Jeff Cannon, UNH freshman, winner of 2001 'Fun on the Fourth' T-shirt design contest

"I'm most encouraged by the show of patriotism and by those who are lending assistance, not just here in Wilmington, but everywhere. I have been trying to get through to the Red Cross, but they've been busy. It will probably be a few days before they can get back to me and I can schedule an appointment and donate blood. Having a young child myself, I am concerned about the kids in Wilmington. The school department, the administrators and the teachers have done a wonderful job of helping kids have a normal life but also keeping in tune with their needs, as well."

Selectman Scott Garratt

"I was at work when my son called me in tears, telling me that his wife had flown on a business trip to Los Angeles from the same terminal as those planes. I watched the news on the television in the lunchroom. I didn't find out for another hour-and-a-half whether or not my daughter-in-law had been one of those planes. Fortunately, her plane landed at an airport in North Carolina. The strange thing was that as they flew over New York, the pilot had announced, 'We are now flying over Manhattan. To your right you can see the twin towers of the World Trade Center.' It was only five to ten minutes afterward that the towers were crash-hit by those other two planes. The passengers were unaware of anything until they disembarked and heard all the commotion. They were bussed to Orlando and eventually all got transportation out of there. My daughter-in-law got on a bus at twelve noon on Thursday and didn't get home until thirty hours later. It's really terrible. The whole week was so sad and heartbreaking for everyone. Everyone has a story to tell. You wake up with them in your heart and in your mind and you just can't stop thinking about them. All week long the bank was quiet, and all of a sudden it got incredibly busy on Saturday. It's like a delayed reaction to the whole thing. You feel relief for those who made it, but at the same time, you become mechanical, just going through the motions of everything without really being present where you are. All you can do is pray to God, and your prayers will be heard. It's hard to know what to say. I am just truly thankful that my daughter-in-law made it. I won't be anxious to get on a plane anytime soon, I can tell you that."

Ellen Pearlstein, Teller, Reading Co-Operative Bank, Wilmington Branch

"On Thursday, I went to a meeting in Sturbridge and stopped at a McDonald's with a colleague. Four people walked in: two parents, their son, and their daughter-in-law. They looked very Arab. We found out later that they were Egyptian and visiting our country. What I wasn't prepared for was that many in the restaurant stared at them, many of them with suspicion. It made me angry. Our responsibility as Christians is to make sure that history does not repeat itself. Remember what we did to the Japanese-Americans during World War II. God help us if that happens again. Let us teach our children well because in some cases the looks at the restaurant came from the younger ones."

Reverend Joseph Pinho, of St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Chapel, addressing those who attended the interfaith service that was held at the Wilmington Congregational Church on Friday, September 14.

"I was at work when my co-workers asked me if I had heard the news that an airliner had just crashed into the World Trade Center. We watched the news on a television monitor that is in our main corridor. We watched the crowds and we just couldn't believe it, especially when the second plane crashed into the other tower. I was horrified. After that, we tried to get through the day as normally as possible so as not to let the terrorists 'win'. I heartily condemn all acts of terrorism with every fibre of my being. I strongly believe that the world needs to gather and find a very strong way to begin to deal with it. Our society has been very complacent to date, heard the news an hour earlier came back and told everyone else. I didn't know what to think; I only felt a quiver of fear for what's to follow. It's so overwhelming for everyone that you just can't imagine what it is like being there. I didn't know anyone there personally, but I feel so badly for them. Providentially, we had recently finished a lesson on the fact that you can talk to God anytime, anywhere, anywhere. We had a special prayer for our President. There will be a special fundraiser to help the victims of the tragedy."

Carol Tate, preschool teacher, Abundant Life School

"I was home watching television when I saw the newscast. It's unbelievable; it just doesn't seem real. I didn't know anyone who was there personally. I really admire the firefighters, police officers, doctors, nurses, and other rescue workers for what they're doing to help. It's times like these that make you realize that political infighting is not important. The whole country has to pull together to support our President."

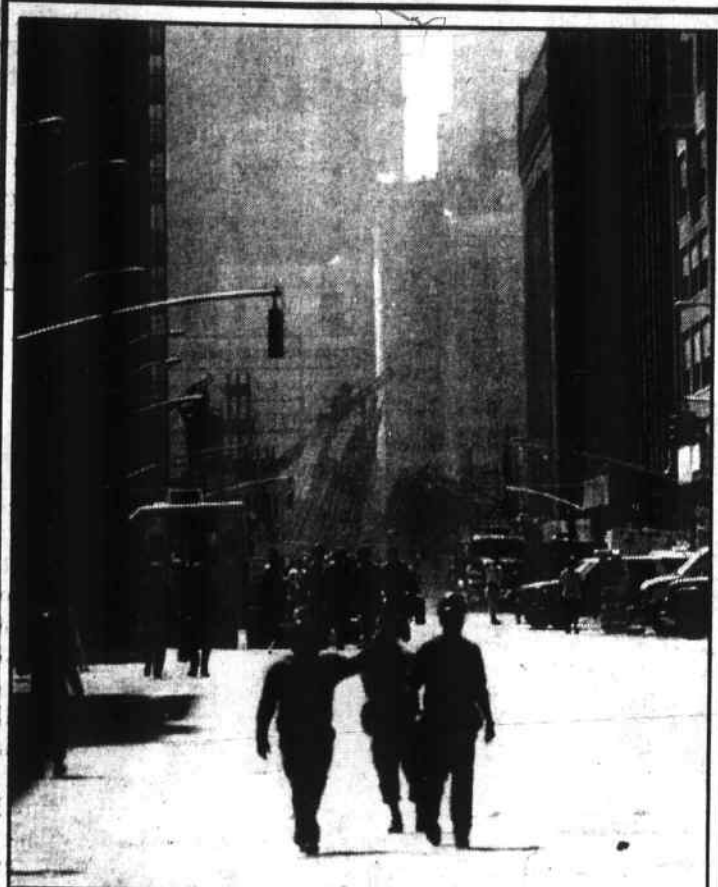

Selectman Robert Palmer

"What happened is unbelievable. I was home recovering from surgery; when I first put on the television and saw the towers on fire, I thought that it must have been a movie! Then I saw the words 'live broadcast' on the bottom of the television screen and I was in shock, especially when I learned that these planes were out of Boston. I was devastated when the second plane hit; I just sat there and shed tears to God; my stitches removed the day after the attack. I noticed how deserted it was, both on Interstate 93 and in the streets of Boston, and let me tell you, it was pretty scary. Activity was extremely subdued. What traffic there was moved very slowly, stopping to let other drivers go and pedestrians cross the street. Even the taxi drivers seemed more courteous somehow. I looked up at the John Hancock and Prudential Towers and thought, 'My God, it could have happened here, or anywhere, for that matter.' We need to meet this thing head-on. This is a new age, a new war, with no face to the enemy. Our country needs to heal first, then find out who is responsible for this and then stand by our President, have faith in him that he'll do the right thing. He'll go after the countries that harbor these terrorists. They speak of God... what kind of a god would accept the kind of people who'll stop at nothing to kill? Our country will rally; we'll remember the victims but life will go on. I truly believe that America's finest hour is yet to come."

Selectman Michael McCoy

"I have been changed. On Tuesday, when I first heard about the attack, I was filled with so much rage, so much anger, so much hatred, disbelief, shock and fear. For three days this week there was a battle within me. I fell on my knees before the Lord. I didn't ask Him 'Why?' because I already knew. I asked Him for help. I asked for forgiveness for myself and my weaknesses and for those who carried out these disastrous events. This feelings and opinions on the tragedy as there are folks. The one commonality is that our lives will never be the same again. The following represents what a small cross-section of Wilmington residents are saying about the latest tragedy:

"Three bad guys crashed airplanes into the two towers in New York and the building in Washington, D.C. They didn't hit the White House. They just wanted to kill people, I guess. We talked together about the accident on the school bus and in our classroom. Mrs. Graham asked us to wear red, white, and blue, and we made flags out of paper and straws to help us remember the people who died in the accident. It makes me think of them maybe coming back to life."

Michael Joy, age 5, Boutwell School

"It's a really horrible thing. We were heading out to a school retreat when one teacher heard about it and told the other teachers. We were completely amazed and thought, 'This couldn't be happening.' We listened to the news during the bus ride up and prayed for the victims and their families and the rescue workers. Our history teacher, who was on the bus,

'Pray for our country.' People drove by and honked and waved back at us."

Alanna Gilbert & Christie Presz, age 12, Abundant Life School

"I was having my morning cup of coffee when I saw the first plane hit. Honestly, I thought I was seeing an ad for a movie. I was in total shock when I found out that all of it was really happening. Everybody I know knows somebody who was involved in the tragedy. I'm finding that people are more conscious about other people. It's very emotional. Everybody has shed a tear, even the president. My son's next-door neighbor has a friend who worked on the 105th floor of one of the World Trade Center towers. We haven't heard yet if he's safe or among the missing. I tell you, whoever did this did more than wake a sleeping tiger. They've woken the whole zoo."

Selectman George W. Hooper

"I didn't even know what had happened until my roommate woke me up and told me about it. I was in shock for a week; it takes a long time to comprehend something like this. Looking back, it seems that this has been building up ever since and very open. People in the world are going to take advantage of us to their own ends. Freedom has to be fought for or else this mysterious 'they' will take it from us. It's not freedom when other people force you to believe as they do. I only hope to God that this is only for a time, and not forever that we have to clamp down."

Robert Paquette, M.I.T. employee

"I was working at the school; we had just finished snack time when another teacher who had this to me was like the Oklahoma City bombing, only worse. I am deeply saddened, even though it didn't occur in our own backyard, so to speak. I didn't know anyone there personally, but I went to college in New York, and somewhere along the line I'm sure that I know somebody, perhaps a former classmate of mine. I heard that Chelsea Clinton was only twelve blocks away when the tragedy struck. There are many other stories as well; it's all very unfortunate. I was in the city having change has happened in our lives for a reason. It is part of God's plan. I'm sure we'll be asking for days, months, years to come: What was God's plan in all of this? What I see before me is the beginning of his plan, people of all faiths and backgrounds, coming together, united by what has happened."

by mode with regard to specialized skills. The country as a whole is shocked and deeply affected by the tragedy. We need to use our inner strength and make ourselves stronger to get through this."

In Tewksbury, the police and fire departments have combined efforts to raise money for the families of the fallen police officers and firefighters at the disaster sites of both the Pentagon and World Trade Center.

"We wanted to help," says Tewksbury Police Lieutenant Al Donovan.

According to Lieutenant Donovan, Sergeant Tim Sheehan thought that raising money for the families of the fallen police and firefighters would be a good idea. Together, the two men brainstormed for ideas that could be expanded to include all police and fire departments statewide. The plan was to print bumper stickers and t-shirts and sell them to raise money for the family relief effort.

"There isn't any one of us who wouldn't want to be in New York helping those people," says Sgt. Sheehan. "Because we can't, we chose to do what we could to raise money for those families."

They solicited help for the operation and ordered 30,000 bumper stickers, but found out that the stickers wouldn't be ready for a week. T-shirts were also a part of their plan, and when they told all area fire and police departments about their idea, they all placed orders. Prices were set at $10 each for t-shirts and $5 each for bumper stickers. All proceeds will be donated toward the families.

"It became a united effort," says Lt. Donovan.

A meeting was planned for Tuesday, September 18 to discuss where both departments should go with this. According to Lieutenant Donovan, they started out with 450 t-shirts on Friday afternoon and sold all of them in 90 minutes. The slogan on the t-shirts: "American by birth, Proud by choice." The first 150 t-shirts were donated by All Sports Promotions of Lowell, and all subsequent t-shirts are being printed at cost for the department.

More than 2,000 t-shirts have been printed and over $12,000 has been raised since Friday, and that is just within Tewksbury. At Tuesday's meeting, it was discussed how to spread the fundraising effort to encompass the entire state. Orders for t-shirts have even been received from corporations.

The two officers plan to talk to other unions over the next few weeks to promote their ideas and raise more money. Various businesses in Tewksbury have offered space for the t-shirts and will help sell them. Aubut's Liquors, WalMart, Home Depot, Oakdale Liquors, Tewksbury Paint and Hardware and Guys and Dolls Hair Salon will join in the efforts. The VFW has also asked to help with the sale of the t-shirts.

for me to keep." For the past 29 years, Kingsley had kept her father's flag in a wooden keepsake box. Inside the box, the flag remained as it had been originally folded at the time of her father's funeral.

Says Kingsley, "After the tragic event that happened last Tuesday, though, I decided to display his flag on our fence as a sign of patriotism to show all Americans that we stand united. I knew that it would have made my father proud to have his flag displayed at a time like this, and that is the only reason why I hung it on our fence."

Kingsley does not have any suspicions as to who stole her father's flag, which had positioned lights shining on it, but she can pinpoint the theft as having taken place at approximately 8 p.m. on Sunday, September 16.

"I was just about ready to bring it back inside for the night when I found out that it had been stolen," says Kingsley.

Kingsley simply wants her father's flag back, and she asks the responsible individual to bring it to her house on 27 Pratt Street, no questions asked. Pratt Street, incidentally, is right off of Route 38 in Tewksbury, a mile or so from the Wilmington line and near the Lil Peach and the United Methodist Church.

"I'm totally sick over this," says Kingsley. "Please, whoever took my flag, please bring it back."

Still classmates after 40 years

by ELAINE DEPASQUALE

Nearly 80 familiar faces crowded the ballroom of Andover's Rolling Green Inn Saturday night. Some came from as far away as Texas, Arizona, California, New Mexico, Minnesota and Washington state.

A terrorist attack on America and the temporary shut down of air travel served only to strengthen the will of Wilmington High School's Class of 1961 to show the world it would not accept defeat. Its 40 year reunion was attended in force.

They came by train, or drove long distances for days on end. Class President Jon Meads seemed almost to get there by magic, arriving from Kirkland, Washington just as his classmates were mourning his absence. His girlfriend found him a flight at the last minute, he said, but it felt to us like he had just sky jumped in. No matter, he received a hero's welcome.

Phil Sweet drove from Grapevine, Texas. Mike Weinberg took a train from New Mexico. Diana Imbimbo flew in early from Arizona, before the tragedy.

Former Track Coach and Math Teacher Frank Kelly was there. Longtime Teacher Irene Sharpe Brennan was there too.

Does any else remember "My name is Miss Sharpe and I'm as sharp as my name?"

She still is.

The Stars and Stripes hung prominently over the ballroom. Jimmy Rooney wore a tie designed to look like the American flag.

While the talk was sometimes of the trauma of recent days, a most oft heard remark was "You haven't changed a bit!"

But of course we all had, in ways both visible and invisible.

We all wore nametags, to help us identify each other, but in most cases that was unnecessary. The smiles were still the same, the friendliness and the memories.

A large group of North Wilmington alumni posed earlier in the afternoon on the steps of the Whitfield School where they had all attended first grade in 1949. A drop in from Billerica, I stood in the audience and overheard Mrs. Emily Dukas, the mother of Rose Dukas Henneberger say, "When I went to school there, the toilets were outdoors!" Now that's history!

147 students graduated from Wilmington High School in 1961. Many have traveled far. From Paris, France, where Carol Schiavone practices clinical psychology to Morgantown, West Virginia where Dr. Jimmy Corum teaches Electrical Engineering and got himself listed in Who's Who In Engineering and cited by the Secretary of Defense as a "National Treasure," to San Antonio, Texas, where Dr. Carleton Eddy teaches Ob/Gyn and illustrates aircraft magazines, Wilmington students have made their mark on the world.

More importantly, Wilmington has made its mark on them.

Many have remained in town, active on town committees and boards. Some, like Bob Gage, who is Vice President of Wilmington's Little League, and Judy Condrey and Jim Melzar who taught in Wilmington schools, have turned their energies to molding a new generation of Wilmington citizens.

Some of us have moved just beyond the town's borders, but remain Wilmington at heart.

There were some who could not attend, due to family emergencies or prior obligations. Among these was Peter Neilson, one of our best and brightest, who retired from technical writing and now lives on 100 acres of North Carolina countryside and operates a Barnyard Petting Farm with his wife.

Caring for animals has evidently been a value of the class of 1961. While no veterinarians appeared, several classmates included their four-legged family members in their biographies. Elaine DiBella Raia not only runs her own Riding

Academy and Boarding facility, but has just had her work published in a book called Horse Tales for the Soul.

The Class of 1961 produced ten engineers, seven educators, eight healthcare personnel and 147 all around good citizens, 16 of whom have now passed on and live only in our memories.

Saturday night was a night to remember. There was drinking and dancing and eating and chatter. But underneath all that one fact came home to me.

This is it. This is why our country is strong. Why people risk their lives paddling in small boats to get to our shores. Why we are hated by fanatical societies who do not smile.

It's not the gold in the streets.

It's the caring, the sharing, and the sense of community. These 80 people, many of whom had lived for years thousands of miles away, were all still citizens of Wilmington. Still neighbors. Still friends.

With old age approaching, I've found it prudent to get a little exercise on a regular basis. So I walk the straight and tree-lined paths of Wildwood Cemetery and think it not a bad place to spend eternity.

Each walk is like a visit to old friends.

Boys' Soccer Clash

'Cats team play enough to edge Redmen

By MATT KALMAN
Sports Correspondent

The Tewksbury High boys' soccer team doesn't have to be reminded about Wilmington High midfielder Adam Jensen's four-goal outburst in last season's final game that the Wildcats won.

And now they won't have to be reminded of the match they lost to a more balanced Wilmington attack as four different Wildcats players scored in the team's 4-3 win on Saturday at Tewksbury High in the first meeting between the two teams since Jensen's performance last season.

Jensen, a senior captain, was once again a factor, as he scored the Wildcats' final goal and assisted on their first score, but the story was everyone else on Wilmington's ability to step up.

"I thought the way both teams were banging the ball around, he was kind of neutralized," said Wilmington coach Steve Scanlon. "Neither team was functioning well at midfield. When you're skipping midfield, I think you're missing some valuable players. So I don't think he was getting the ball, which was most of the problem. I don't think it was so much intentional as the style both teams got locked into for a little while."

"He's go-to player and he's going to be marked. So we need to have other players step up, and I think we have that."

The loss added insult to injury for the Redmen (1-3-1), who were without injured senior captains Andrew Imbriglio and Christopher Vanasselberg. Even before the match, Tewksbury coach Steve Levine was concerned about his team's chances without the two players he called his most aggressive on the field.

"They (Imbriglio and Vanasselberg) set the tone and when they're not in there the team kind of looks to somebody else," said Levine. "No one stepped it up [Saturday] as far as aggressiveness. That's been our problem our last two games."

Senior goalkeeper Chris Flynn stopped 14 shots for Wilmington (2-1) in the win, including a handful of diving plays in the match's final six minutes with Tewksbury staging a desperate rally. Tewksbury keeper Kyle Ritchie made 10 saves in the loss.

"Kyle, who's had great games this season, [Saturday] the last two goals were absolutely stoppable goals," said Levine. "Just not a great game [on Saturday]. He's been a steady force for us in the nets up until [Saturday]. I think he just lost his focus."

Senior midfielder Jon Adams, who scored all three of Tewksbury's goals, opened the scoring 16 minutes into the match with an unassisted goal. The goal came just moments after Adams missed a goal with a wide shot off of a pass from Adam Stotik.

Twenty minutes later, Wilmington answered when sophomore Andy Bamberg headed home a deflected Jensen shot. The Wilmington rush had started with a steal at midfield by Jared Constantino, who passed ahead to Jensen.

Late in the first half, a Willy Fiumara scoring chance was stopped by Ritchie with a dive to preserve a 1-1 tie at halftime. However, early in the second half, Fiumara scored the go-ahead goal into the top of the net after a pass from Jason Gustin.

Adams and the Redmen still showed some spunk after they fell behind. Five minutes after Fiumara's goal, Adams was fouled by Matthew Goldblatt and fired a penalty kick past Flynn's left hand after Flynn started leaning to his right.

Tewksbury's joy was short-lived, as two minutes later Gustin retrieved a loose ball in front of the Tewksbury net and knocked it past Ritchie into the top left corner of the goal for a 3-2 Wilmington lead.

Wilmington added to its lead when Jensen redirected Michael Kelley's free kick into the net with a little more than 20 minutes to play. Seven minutes later, Tewksbury close to within a goal on a scoring shot by Adams from the left side of the field.

"They're a typical Tewksbury team," said Scanlon. "They're tough to the ball. They look for you to make error and capitalize on them. They're well coached and well conditioned as usual. Anytime we play, you can throw the cards out there."

"Last year, we had our way with them. But I told the kids, 'be prepared'."

Adams' goal sparked a Tewksbury rally in the match's final six minutes, but Flynn and the Wilmington defense took care of business. Tewksbury's best chances were a high shot by Matt Soni that Flynn managed to tip over the crossbar, and a line drive shot by Soni that Flynn caught with both arms just before the final whistle.

"It was good early-season win," said Scanlon. "But we still have a long way to go."

Keeper comes back after layoff

Sports Correspondent

There has been a lot of talk recently about Michael Jordan's impending comeback to the NBA after a three-year layoff, but Wilmington High's boys' soccer team need only look out on the pitch to witness another comeback story.

Senior goalkeeper Chris Flynn is back after skipping two seasons of varsity soccer and he hasn't looked any worse for wear. Case in point, Flynn's 14 saves in the Wildcats' 4-3 win over Tewksbury on Saturday.

"I got all pumped up for [Saturday's] game," said Flynn, whose cousin T.J. Flynn was the Wildcats keeper a few years ago leading the team to the state championship game. "I played one of my better games of my career."

Flynn wasn't completely out of soccer the last two seasons. Working out with Wilmington senior midfielder and captain Adam Jensen helped keep Flynn somewhat sharp.

"It was tough at the beginning," said Flynn about the effort it took to get back into shape. "I went to just about every captain's practice, getting myself work and everything. I just want to continue getting better and better as the season progresses."

He might have even made his comeback last season were it not for some parental intervention.

"I always wanted to come back," said Flynn. "Last year, I was planning to come back, but my mom made me get a job. But this year I kind of told her this was my senior year and Jensen asked me to come back. I wanted to help out the team and I want to win."

Beating Tewksbury was important to Flynn not just because it was a victory over an arch-rival, but because he needed to bounce back from allowing five goals in Wilmington's only loss of the season to Masconomet earlier in the week.

"[Saturday] was a good game," said Flynn, who helped Wilmington improve to 2-1 with the win. "I was dying for the win after the beating we withheld from Masco. That wasn't anything I was too proud of or anything I really care to talk about. I let up five goals. I needed the win today. I got to show that I could play the position."

In fact, if it weren't for Tewksbury senior Jon Adams, Flynn might have shutout the Redmen. Adams scored all three of Tewksbury's goals, including one on a penalty shot that completely fooled Flynn. Don't ask the goalkeeper, however, who scored any of the opponent's goals.

"I have no idea who anyone is on any team," said Flynn. "I treat them all the same. I just try and watch where the shot is coming from and then do my best to get it away from the net."

Flynn's play, even after his hiatus, has earned him the starting job from coach Steve Scanlon.

"Flynn has taken a couple of years off. He was once an up-and-coming, promising goaltender, but he took some time off which has hurt him," said Scanlon. "But he's a tough kid, he's got a good reaction. He's won the job, he's not tentative and he plays with a lot of confidence and the team seems to play more confident in front of him."

And the team is important to Flynn, who said that all of his goals are team-oriented for this season.

"I think the team is strong," said Flynn. "I think that if we play like this, we'll beat everyone. We had Masco and we just let up in the second half. Today we played all 80 minutes, everyone did. They did their job."

"That's what my goal is going to be this season. I want to go to the playoffs. I want to try and help out this team as much as I can."

Girls' soccer squad ties senior oriented team

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

For a few minutes here and there both the Wilmington and Tewksbury High girls' soccer teams played their games and their styles, thus carrying the majority of the play during Saturday morning's non-league battle played at WHS.

But then for a few minutes here and there, both teams didn't play their own styles or the way they wanted to, and that didn't create many offensive chances for either team.

All of that turned into a 1-1 tie. Early season kinks.

"The kids worked well, they worked hard but we aren't where we should be right now," said Tewksbury coach Bob Manzi. "We have a lot of talent on this team and we're trying to get the kinks out and we still are trying to get down the system that we want."

Said Wilmington coach Sue Hendee, "Once we stopped being a kick-and-run team and we settled down and I thought we played pretty well and controlled the play."

"We need to work on finishing. It'll come, but we need to work on it. I'm pleased with the kids and it looks like they are gaining more and more confidence. But we still have work to do."

Tewksbury started the season off with three wins over Notre Dame Academy (2-1), Haverhill (5-2) and Billerica (4-2), before losing to Chelmsford (2-1) and the tie against Wilmington bringing their record to 3-1-1 through the first five games. And that in Tewksbury Nation is unheard of.

"Obviously we'll take the point," said Manzi. "They're coming along, just not quite where we would like."

And for Wilmington, despite having just one senior on the team compared to the 11 Tewksbury has, they'll also take the tie but still are searching for their first win after

Youth travel basketball tryouts

The Wilmington Youth Basketball Association has scheduled tryouts for the boys' sixth, seventh and eighth grade travel teams. All tryouts will be held at the Wilmington Middle School at the following times:

Grade six: Tues., Oct. 2 and 9 from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Grade seven: Thurs., Oct. 4 and 11 from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Grade eight: Thurs., Oct. 4 and 11, 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Please arrive 15 minutes prior for registration.

Eligible players must be Wilmington residents or attend a Wilmington school. Boys are encouraged to attend both tryout dates.

The season will run from mid-October to the end of March. Home games are played on Saturday at the Middle School. Away games are generally held on the weekends, however there are some games that may be held on a weeknight. Teams play a 20-24 game league schedule against teams in the Merrimack Valley and Southern New Hampshire area.

League playoffs; non-league games and tournaments are scheduled in addition to the regular season. Players must commit to weekly practices during the entire season. The fee per player is $200. There is no cost to tryout.

Tryouts for the boys' fifth grade travel team will be announced at a later date. Any questions concerning the boys' travel basketball program may be directed to Mike Cairn at 978-658-6062.

Correction

In last week's edition, Jamie Pote added a paragraph onto the end of Sandra Fletcher's Wilmington Field Hockey game story against Amesbury which included an error.

Pote accidentally wrote that last Monday's field hockey game against Newburyport was postponed due to the Attack On America. That wasn't true. The game was played Monday afternoon and the Attack on the Country was obviously on Tuesday.

We apologize for the error. [Sp. Ed.]

Cronin helping volleyball team get over obstacles

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It's quite obvious just how much the Wilmington High volleyball team has improved.

It's quite obvious just how much each and every player on the team has improved.

Just watch Julie Cronin, for one example.

Last year the team really struggled with problems on and off the court. The team had just two wins, while they also struggled putting the ball over the net whether it be on serves, during volleys or just on passing.

On Monday afternoon, Wilmington hosted Masconomet Regional and although the 'Cats lost in two sets, 15-7 and 15-10, the team has made great strides already this season. The team is 2-2 in its first four games and Cronin has a lot to do with that.

"We're definitely a lot better this year than last year," said Cronin. "We try to get as pumped up as we can before a game and that seems to be very helpful for all of us and it seems to work."

"We were pumped up [on Monday] but sometimes we lost some points and we got down."

Sure the team can improve on its mental aspect and certainly its communication, but for this one loss the team's consistency in the hitting department was the reason they had leads of 5-4 in the first game and 8-0 in the second game. It's just getting to that next level.

"We need to improve the mental attitude," she said. "Just keeping up the energy and the momentum. Sometimes we get down and it's so hard trying to get everyone back up. We know that we are an awesome team - we just have to play like we can."

Momentum is such a huge part of the game of volleyball. In the second set on Monday, Wilmington jumped out to an 8-0 with three of those serving points coming from Cronin who got the lead going for Wilmington.

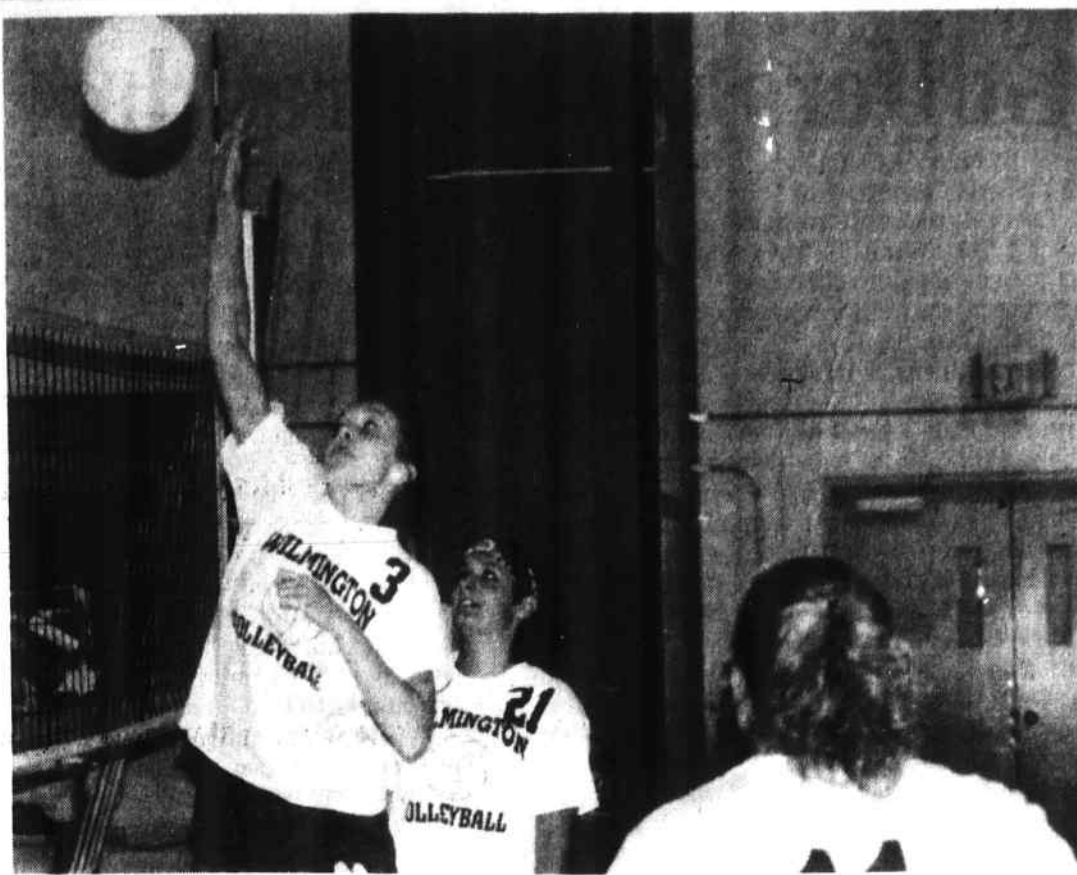

"At the beginning of the season my serve wasn't that good," she said. "But everyday I'm always trying to improve - I just keep hitting and hitting the ball. Everything gets better in practice."

Wilmington was able to increase its lead to 8-0 with several nice kills by Kristin Sauve mixed in, but suddenly Masco got the serve back only to give it back to Wilmington seconds later after a Cronin kill. Wilmington was in the driver's seat then but they lost the volley.

Masconomet then went on a huge 11-1 run, until a Cronin kill gave Wilmington the ball back trailing 12-9. Wilmington did salvage a point making it 12-10, but Masco ended the game with three straight points to win the match.

On the day, Cronin had 5 service points, 4 kills and a dozen or so terrific digs. But more importantly her hits were consistent.

"A lot of us went to a camp together during the summer and we just tried to improve on our hitting and concentrating on when to hit the ball, or when to match-up with someone," she said. "Our setters have been awesome. They know when to hit it high and tight or when to hit it a little off the net for us. We just have to talk more and play like we can (and we'll win more)."

Masco sweeps Volleyball team

The Wilmington Lady Wildcats Volleyball team is preparing for a tough week approaching in their league. After a tough loss to Lexington, the girls went on the attack, beating North Andover in two sets 15-6 and 15-5, before losing to Masconomet Regional in two sets on Monday afternoon.

Now the team will be preparing for Lynnfield, who went to the state semi-final match last year, and North Reading, another strong team in the North Shore League.

"They're coming together really well and this is going to be one of our most competitive weeks," said WHS coach Mark Staffier. "If the girls continue to play like they did against North Andover, I don't see us having any problems bringing in the win."

With an exciting win over North Andover under their belt the varsity team, led by nine seniors, came into Monday's game against Masco with excitement and confidence.

With the first game under way Nicole Silva began by serving for Wilmington. Wilmington immediately put two points on the board. Kerri Moynihan had a nice tip just over the net to score the second point. Lyndsey Borsetti served next for Wilmington but showed too much strength when her serve landed just long and outside.

With the score 2-0, Moynihan served a ball just shy of the net to give Masco their chance to score. Julie Cronin made a great attempt to dig out a tough serve from Masco, but it slipped by. When Cronin served next she pushed the ball too far and it was long.

Captain Kristin Sauve was an enormous part of Monday's game with two hard kills, serving for four points and showing great defense at the net with three difficult blocks. Although Sauve was leading her team along with captain Jill Murray, the girls lost the first game with a score of 15-7.

The Lady Wildcats were hoping to continue their up beat momentum, after beating North Andover in Monday's match up. After losing the first game, they took a strong and fast lead in the second game, with a score of 8-0.

Starting off for the Wildcats was Cronin serving up three points. Sauve also served in this game bringing the score up to seven. Lisa Hurley served well in the game, adding a point to the Wilmington lead.

Playing well offensively was Gina Ranno and Lauren Crowley each with point scoring serves. But in the end, the great offense wasn't enough for the Lady Wildcats. Masco came back to regain the lead and eventually take the win with a final score of 15-10.

"It's when we lose our momentum that things go badly for us," said Staffier. "We begin to relax too much and don't rebound as well as we should. We get frozen after the other team makes a good play or something. Hopefully they girls will take this game and learn from what they did wrong, so it won't happen again. Then they can put it behind them and concentrate on the up coming teams."

The girls will have to work hard if they plan to compete with the likes of North Reading and Lynnfield. Lynnfield is one of the top qualifiers in the league every year.

"They are two very tough teams, but we'll come through, the girls are preparing for one game at a time, so they can be focused," said Staffier.

The Lady Wildcats will face the dreaded Lynnfield on Wednesday and North Reading on Friday.

losses to Lynnfield (3-0) and Masconomet (3-2).

The lone senior for Wilmington, captain Diane Dellascio, got Wilmington on the scoreboard with her first tally of the season. Just five minutes into the game, Dellascio had the ball about 30 yards out to the left of Tewksbury keeper Kelly Boyle. Dellascio shifted to her right and sent a long high shot deep over the head of Boyle and into the back of the net for the quick 1-0 lead.

Less than three minutes later, Tewksbury tied the game at 1-1. Maria Afouxenedis took a shot about 10 yards out that just trickled off the hand of keeper Liz Coughlin and into the far corner.

"Maria's goal was nice," said Manz. "We started to put pressure on them for a while and then we sagged back a bit."

And from what looked like a shoot-out in the first 8 or so minutes, turned into a defensive battle as both teams didn't quite have many chances to score thereafter, although Wilmington sophomore Lauren Rappoli did test Boyle several times in the second half.

Hendee was very pleased with what her defense did.

"Emily [Dorrance] and Mary [Sullivan] have been outstanding so far," said Hendee. "I don't remember seeing any crosses to the middle [on Saturday]. Their wing defense has just been outstanding."

Although Hendee didn't know much about the background of Tewksbury's Jackie Greer, who can certainly score, Wilmington's defense seemed to have swarmed Greer whenever she touched the ball, thus not allowing her much room to move with the ball where she can be so dangerous.

As good as Wilmington's defense was, so were the Tewksbury defenders, especially Lauren Bagley and Lindsey Orpen. Bagley stopped two very good chances for Wilmington to score with diving break-ups and Orpen continues to play her very sound, very consistent, nothing flashy but get the job done kind of defense.

"Lindsay and Lauren were outstanding," said Manz. "No one beats Lauren to the ball. And I thought Emma [DelloRusso] played well and so did Eleni [Afouxenedis]."

Rappoli had the best chance to get the game winner in the second half with three very good chances coming from the right wing. She took a nice pass from Ashley Steenbruggen and went in but Rappoli's shot was saved but Boyle.

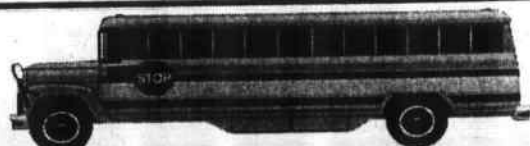

Minutes later, Rappoli shot a bullet right at Boyle for another save, and that followed up when she went down the left wing, cut to the middle and unleashed another shot which was stopped.

Boyle made 10 saves in the game, while the combination of Coughlin and freshman Alicia Braid made seven.

Earlier in the week Wilmington lost to Masco, 3-2, as Jen Leone scored a goal with an assist to sophomore Rachel See, and freshman Lani Cabral-Pini notched her first varsity goal with an assist from another freshman Teresa DeSimone.

Wilmington will host North Andover Friday afternoon at 3:45 at the Shawsheen School. Then on Tuesday, September 25th, they will travel to Newburyport for a 7:00 pm night game.

As for Tewksbury, they will travel to Lowell on Thursday night for a 7:00 pm MVC game, before returning home on Tuesday against the powerful Andover squad beginning at 3:30.

Austin Prep round-up

By TIM LANE

Football

Senior fullback Anthony Castellano (Georgetown) ran for 170 yards on 23 carries, scoring 3 touchdowns and a two point conversion in Austin Prep's victory over South Boston this week, 36-0. The Cougars managed to convert all four of South Boston's turnovers into touchdown scoring drives. Joe Collins, a junior from Haverhill, who scored Austin's fourth touchdown of the day, gained a total of 53 yards on 6 carries.

Senior Jason Fennessey (Andover) also scored a TD, with a total of 4 carries for 48 yards. Other leading players on Austin's offense were junior Chris Angiolillo (North Reading), with 55 yards on 8 carries, and junior Frank Powers (North Reading), with 25 yards on 5 carries and two 2 point conversions.

Austin's defense held South Boston to a total of 103 yards of offense, forced the four turnovers mentioned above, and stopped a South Boston run for the end zone from the Austin 7, ending with a touchback by junior Scott O'Neill (Tewksbury). Austin Prep now stands at 2-0 on the season.

Girls' Soccer

The Austin girls had two shut-out victories this week, defeating both Matignon and St. Mary's of Lynn, 1-0. In the Matignon game, Austin's sophomore midfielder Caitlin Sheary (Melrose) scored the winning goal on a pass from junior Christina Saropoulos (Somerville). Meghan Gould (Danvers), an eighth grader, had three saves in goal. Meghan then had a more rigorous workout against St. Mary's of Lynn, making 9 saves in Austin's second shut-out of the week. Freshman Danielle Orlandella (Peabody) scored Austin's winning goal with six minutes left with an assist by junior Dailyn Tanner (Andover).

Boys' Soccer

The Austin boys defeated Archbishop Williams 3-2 this week. Sophomore Patrick Duran (Woburn) scored all three of Austin's goals. Senior Zach Dearth (Stoneham) had seven saves in goal, for Austin's first victory of the season.

Team Captains Announced:

As the Fall sports season comes alive, team captains have been chosen from among Austin Prep's most outstanding student athletes. Chosen to lead their teammates to victory this fall are the following:

Football

This year's football captains are seniors Anthony Castellano (Georgetown), Ian James (Wakefield), and R.J. O'Brien (Saugus). Cheerleader captains are seniors Kristin Fennelly (Saugus), Christie Spadafora (Saugus), and Taisha Walker (Stoneham).

Soccer

This year's Cougar girls' soccer captains are seniors Caitlyn Dickinson (BillERICA) and Meaghan Kenny (Andover), and juniors Christina Saropoulos (Somerville) and Dailyn Tanner (Andover). Zach Dearth, a senior from Wakefield, is the new captain of the boys' varsity squad.

Cross Country

Cross country captains are seniors Robert Mills (Wilmington) and Chris Fox (Stoneham) for the boys, and senior Michelle Cangiano (Saugus) and junior Kristen Boyce (Andover) for the girls.

Golfers remain red hot

Sports Correspondent

Every Massachusetts prep golf coach's dream is to have six players he can send out onto the course with a better than average chance of winning in match play.

With that in mind, Wilmington High boys' coach Al Fessenden is more fortunate than New York Yankees manager Joe Torre when it comes to depth.

The Wildcats' eight-man team proved again to be a tough team to take down last week in wins over Ipswich and Hamilton Wenham. Wilmington improved to 5-0 on the season with the wins.

"We've won the matches, so far, that we hoped to win," said Fessenden, whose team started the season with wins over Rockport, Amesbury and Newburyport. "We've shown ourselves that we can play on the road. We're getting to tougher part of the schedule, but it was the same thing last year and they responded."

The defending Division 3 state champs had two holes to fill this season after the graduation Brian Velardo and Jay Youngclaus. Instead of just two players stepping up to fill-in the gaps, four Wildcats golfers have stepped forward.

Freshman Kevin Velardo, junior Doug Horan and seniors Jack Webb and Justin Strem have been battling each other for the fifth and sixth slots in the early season. The competition has given all four the chance to play in the top six.

"They've improved themselves, but also with four kids going for two positions, they push each other," said Fessenden. "It's nice to have the challenge. All four bring experience and they follow through."

In Wilmington's 11-1 win over Ipswich, Horan (4-0 this season) played No. 5 and won his match, 4 and 2 with a score of 46. Playing at No. 6, Kevin Velardo (4-0 this season) won 5 and 3 with a 39. On that same day, Jack Webb could've easily played in the top six with his 3 and 1 win and score of 46.

"It's not just any one part of the line-up winning this thing," said Fessenden.

Senior Kyle Burns and juniors Jordan Ungvarsky and David Velardo - three of Wilmington's usual top four - all won against Ipswich. Only No. 1 player and senior captain Aaron Ungvarsky, who leads the Wildcats with 96 points and seven birdies this season, lost on that day and he shot a 38.

"The four returnees have shown great leadership and played very well," said Fessenden. "We're strong one through 6."

On the road against Hamilton

Wenham, the Wildcats pulled off a 12-0 win at difficult Myopia Country Club in Hamilton.

"That's a tough course," said Fessenden. "The green slips and it's an old links course. It was the site of four U.S. Opens. But the kids played very well there."

Aaron Ungvarsky won at No. 1, 2-up, with a team-low 35. Burns, who is 5-0 this season, won 4 and 3; Jordan Ungvarsky won 3 and 2; and Kevin Velardo, who played at No. 4, won 3 and 1.

At No. 5, David Velardo, who is 5-0 this season, won 2 and 1 and No. 6 Doug Horan won 2-up.

"We went up and shutout Hamilton Wenham at Myopia, that's unheard of," said Fessenden. "Our line-up is starting to fall into place as far as positions. And we've had a couple of pleasant surprises, especially with some of the scores coming on the road."

Fessenden's team will have the chance to flaunt its depth again in the week ahead. The Wildcats will battle North Reading, a road match that will be played at the Wildcats' home course of Hillview Country Club and a home match against Lynnfield.

Said Fessenden, "Those are two teams that are right up there with us."

Field Hockey squad looks to get back on winning streak

By SANDRA FLETCHER
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High Girls Field Hockey team has their season underway with a record of 2-3-1. Earlier this week the girls put up a nice win against Newburyport with the goals scored by Ashley Young and Stefany Quinton. Defensively goalie Sheri Thresher had 6 saves.

Against Triton the girls had the win with a score of 2-1. Wilmington's Leah DeMaggio and Lisa Antonangeli each scored a goal.

"The team is playing well together," said Coach Patti Cushing. "At Triton and Newburyport they had many great plays, a lot of good things were coming together on the field."

In the game against Pentucket that ended up a tie, Kerry Gillis scored the both goals for the Lady Wildcats, which were assisted by Jenessa Mutchler.

"This game had a different tempo. It was fast paced at both ends and the girls kept their momentum going for the entire 60 minute game," said Cushing.

On Monday night the girls hosted the Scarlet Knights of North Andover and despite a strong defensive effort by Wilmington, North Andover won 1-0. In the fifth minute of the first half, the Knights scored a tough goal, sliding it right along side of goalie Sheri Thresher.

Wilmington defense played great for the entire game. They were constantly fighting to keep the Knights out of their zone. Captain Stefany Quinton played excellent, constantly breaking up Knight plays and moving the ball toward the opposing goal.

"The North Andover team was tough, but the girls really stepped up to the challenge," said Cushing. "This is the first night game, so we needed to get used to the lights and cold weather."

The girls really did put their all into the game. Lisa Antonangeli was constantly interfering with the Knights plays and she almost took a ball right to her face, if it wasn't for her quick reflexes.

Midfielder Annie Warford was continuously adding to the pressure on the Knights with her passes to the forwards. She made a great pass to forward Jenessa Mutchler, who immediately went for a shot but was blocked out.

Also strong offensively was forward Leah DeMaggio. She made great attempts at setting up plays in front of the Knight's goal and continued to put pressure on their defense.

Captain Jackie Rubino was once again leading her team on the attack. She set her self at the middle of the field and lead the charge by drilling the ball into play toward the Knight goal.

Kerry Gillis, Ashley Young, and Stephanie Winn also gave good attempts at goals by setting up positions around the Knight goal using different systems to keep North Andover on their toes.

"We just needed to get past the first night jitters," said Coach Cushing. "If it wasn't for that first goal in the first few minutes, the game would have gone completely different."

Coming up for the Lady Wildcats is more practice and conditioning. "We have a four day break from games, so hopefully the practices will define some of the skills they already are working on in games," said Cushing.

Cross Country teams working to get better

By SANDRA FLETCHER
Sports Correspondent

On Thursday the Wilmington High boys and girls cross country teams got together with Pentucket and Masco for a tri meet.

"This is only our first week and we've already had two quick meets," said head coach Tom Bradley. "We will improve with practice and more time as the season continues."

Both scores of the meets heavily favored the opposing teams, but several Wildcat runners did well. Co-captain Michelle Brush came in first for Wilmington and was the leader for her team during the entire race.

A surprising second place from Wilmington's side was taken by Kerry Gillespie, a new comer to the team.

"Kerry was a walk on to the team and this was her first meet," said Bradley. "She showed me what she can do, and it was a good race for her."

Finishing in third place on the Wilmington side was co-captain Meghan Fudge who ran with great stride and endurance through out the three mile event.

On the boys team, co-captain Dan Vassallo ran hard and kept his team motivated. Vassallo came in first but stayed along side fellow co-captain Shayne Gaffney who placed second for the boys.

"We will learn more as the season progresses," said Bradley. "Cross country isn't like other sports when it comes to practicing or meets, you either run well or you don't. It's a matter of figuring out just how you run."

The next meet is on Thursday against Georgetown and will be held in Wilmington.

Also finishing up a meet was Wilmington Middle School boys and girls cross country. This program was started by Bradley and the kids are doing very well with it.

Their meet was held in Lowell against Saint Geanne D'Arc and it went very well for both the Wilmington boys and girls teams.

The boys won their meet even though they didn't place first or second. The top runner for Wilmington coming in third place was Mark Walsh.

"We won the meet because after Mark, we held the next places," said Bradley.

The girls suffered a tough loss with a score of 28-27, but ran very well. The winner of the girls race was Wilmington's Brianne Bozzello, a seventh grader. Coming in second and third place for Wilmington were Dana Nolan and Krista Cavalaro.

Girls Soccer finally begins

By SANDRA FLETCHER Sports Correspondent

Shawsheen Tech girls' soccer coach Jack Viveiros was enjoying his retirement when he was approached with an idea from a senior at the school, Stephanie Lazotte.

Lazotte had been playing on the varsity boys soccer team because the Shawsheen Tech didn't have a girls program. She and Viveiros felt that they should have one and the program began from there.

Viveiros who was the junior varsity boys soccer coach for ten years had just retired from the sport.

"We saw the interest to play from many girls so we just needed the momentum to get a program up and running," said Viveiros.

Three years ago Viveiros began a soccer program with a girls JV team and things developed from there.

"I was excited about the opportunity to develop my own program, build it up from the ground."

Now the varsity team is involved in the Commonwealth Athletic Conference along with five other teams: Minutemen, Chelsea, Presentation of Mary, Tyngsboro, and North East Metropolitan.

This is the program's third year and the response is great, with over 40 girls wanting to participate on either the JV or Varsity teams. Along with Viveiros is the Assistant Maria Stone. Stone is a former player from the Tewksbury High School team.

"She is a great help to me and together we are trying to improve the league and get more schools involved that don't already have a girls soccer division," said Viveiros.

sion," said Viveiros.

So far the team is doing well with a record of 2-1. Tuesday the girls played against the Presentation of Mary, which happened to be their first inter league game.

With excellent attacks offensively and great defensive strategy the girls came away with a 3-0 victory. Two of the three goals were scored by Junior Ashely Morgado from Tewksbury. The third and final goal was also by a junior from Tewksbury, Stephanie Strazzare.

Defensively the game was run by the goalie, Heather Thomas, freshman from Wilmington who made 6 saves and kept her team motivated through out the game.

The other team games played were against Blackstone Regional and Pope John. Blackstone was a win with a score of 5-0 and Pope John was a 5-0 loss.

"We learn from each game we play, whether we win or lose," said Viveiros. "So far the girls realize that they have to work together and they are learning from each other as well."

This season the varsity team will play ten league games and six non-league games. The non league games will be played against Blackstone Regional, Lowell Catholic, and Pope John.

"We like playing non-league games against teams that are tough, that way we learn more and sharpen the skills we already have," said Viveiros.

The team is hoping to inspire other schools to get involved in the league and to start up their own teams.

"We like to offer a variety of activities to the students so that they might be more comfortable in a technical school," said Viveiros.

Opener vs No. Reading and away at Stoneham wins

Cyclone hard work paying off

The Cyclones, Wilmington's U12A team is two for two in Division One competition earning victories against North Reading and Stoneham in the first two games of the fall season. The team's season opener was a home game vs North Reading.

North Reading gave it their all but could not hold up to the Cyclones' pressure. Katie Cole kept the keeper busy blasting shot after shot at the net throughout the match. A golden opportunity to score came from a nice passing sequence started by Brittany Concannon to Amanda Lord to Jen O'Neill, resulting in a rocket shot by Jen just high of the goalie.

Natalie Melkonian at forward made several runs up the side of the field, sending beautiful crosses in to her teammates. Lauren Frisore hustled at midfield working relentlessly on the field for the Cyclones.

In the opening moments of the second half Christa Cavallaro sent a nice pass to Stephanie Sauve who found an opening and blasted the ball with her left foot past the keeper. The Cyclones continued to pound the Hornets with shots on net. Erin Muise sent a beautiful cross over to Renee Suprenant who fired the shot but hit the crossbar.

Despite the constant pressure the Cyclones' offense couldn't manage to convert for any more goals.

The defense was led by Colleen Magee at sweeper and Jessica Stira at stopper stepped up to hold onto the narrow 1-0 lead.

Also playing solid defensive games for Wilmington were Jessica Lebreque, Casey Godzyk and Dana Nolan. Nicole Ninah made a big play for Wilmington sticking a North Reading forward to end a breakaway.

Although the Cyclones controlled this one, there was one threatening moment late in the game by North Reading when they managed to bring the ball into the box. Keeper Leah Potner stepped up and made an incredible save to rob North Reading of what looked like a sure goal. The game ended 1-0 in the Cyclones' favor.

The team took a road trip to Stoneham for game two this past Saturday. The teams, coaches and referees marched on the field for a moment of silence in respect for the nation's recent tragedy.

Minutes later the teams marched back out on the field, ready to play soccer. Wilmington's defensive line played flawlessly with Colleen in control at sweeper and Amanda and Nicole playing strong games on the wings. Katie started the scoring threats off with a powerful corner kick that the goalie dropped. Christa then sent the rebound into the net.

The goal was unfortunately taken back due to an offside call. Wilmington continued to pound the weary Stoneham goalkeeper with shot after shot.

Erin and Lauren at midfield each came close to scoring and everyone knew it was just a matter of time before the Cyclones got on the board. The first score of the game was a lefty blast by Stephanie off a feed from Brittany to put the team up 1-0. Casey and Dana at defense made some strong clears to the forwards to set up many more scoring opportunities. Jen played an aggressive game for the team working at both midfield and forward.

The offensive pressure continued with Natalie making several runs down the right hand side resulting in shot after shot at the keeper, her determination paid off with a cross to Renee who shot the ball at the net Natalie was there for the rebound and converted for the score. The half ended 2-0 Wilmington.

The talented but exhausted Stoneham keeper couldn't wait to get out of the net after taking a pounding from the Cyclone team and miraculously allowing just two goals. It didn't take long for the Cyclones to score in half two with Jessica Labrecque sending a pass to the foot of Stephanie.

Stephanie turned and placed the ball past the keeper and into the net for her second goal of the game bringing the score to 3-0.

Stoneham's first half goalie showed she also had some field skills and managed to make her way into Wilmington's territory. She took a fall in the box and a penalty kick was awarded. Leah was ready and accurately judged the kick, slapping it down and then smothering it in front of the net, preserving the shutout. The Stoneham player charged the net and tripped over Leah falling hard enough to be taken out for the rest of the game.

Deflated, frustrated, and running out of steam Stoneham was back on its heels playing only defense for the remainder of the game. The Cyclone coaches used the opportunity to change up some positions and work on some plays and this match turned into a practice session.

When the whistle blew the Cyclones left the field at a perfect 2-0-0, allowing not a single goal this season.

The girls will be looking for win number three at home vs Westford on Saturday. The Cyclone family sends its best wishes to defender Jessica Stira who is out of commission indefinitely with a broken arm. Get well soon Jessica! Go Cyclones!

Tough defense leads Under 9A Girls

The young U9A Lady Wildcats took to the pitch for a division matchup against Stoneham on Saturday. Tough defense is quickly becoming the trademark of this team with the Cats playing tenaciously off the ball.

After a sluggish start by both teams in the first few minutes, Wilmington began to exert its presence by challenging every ball, hustling for each loose ball and in general controlling the game in the first half. The Kim Nasiff and Kerry Spry combination worked terrifically to produce two goals late in the opening frame to stake the solid Wildcat defense to a 2-0 lead.

The Lady Cats were so tough on defense that they held Stoneham to only two shots on goal the entire game. Only occasionally did the Stoneham offense put together runs on the Cats. But repeatedly throughout the game the Wilmington D responded, smothering the Stoneham offense only to hustle the ball up and back into the opposing half of the field.

Lauren Zarembo, Lisa Capozzi and Alexa Steenbruggen, anchored the midfield play. Coupled with Taylor Hanley, Kristin Crosby and Amanda Keene making major contributions on the forward end of the play, the young Wildcats were dominating this day peppering the Stoneham defense with 12 shots on net. Final score: 2-0 Wildcats.

Kerry Spry and Kim Nasiff were awarded co-MVP awards for the game as their great combination play, crossing and passing, leading directly to the Wilmington goals. Erin Cowden and Amanda Keene again pitched a shutout in net. The young Wildcats have allowed only three goals in six games stretching back to the Labor Day Tournament in North Reading. Their season continues Saturday, Sept. 22 at Westford. Stay tough girls!

Stonewall defense leads Under 10B Boys

The U10B Wildcats, under coaches Cazeau, McCauley and Ravigni, shut out their Waltham opponents in a 3-0 trailblazer at Shawsheen Field last Saturday. With Nick "Stonewall" Boutoures between the pipes, forwards Jacob Briere, Eric Murray and Caleb Roers engaged in quick passing and an early shot attempt by Murray.

Meanwhile, Chris Cazeau and Chris Cieplik anchored the back half of the field with complete concentration and decisiveness. In short order, Rogers scored, assisted by Murray.

A shift in lines brought in Lance Flaherty and Jared Ravagni on defense, who expertly thwarted any Waltham advance on the net. Forwards Kevin Flaherty (just off the injured reserve list), Daniel McCauley and James Marra continued superb dribbling and passing. Marra had two attempted shots on goal, while Ravagni made a scrappy sweep of the ball across the field.

Back in the rotation, Briere made a breathtaking attempt on net, while Boutoures made a noteworthy stop in the Wilmington end. The first half ended at 1-0.

Goalkeeper Ravagni maintained the impenetrable Wildcat fortress along with defensemen Boutoures and L. Flaherty, as Briere, K. Flaherty and McCauley worked their offensive magic. K. Flaherty scored an exciting, second Wilmington goal, with the assist credited to Boutoures.

The Wildcat thrashing continued when Rogers scored off a pass fed from Murray. The team had some additional fun as the coaches switched the offensive and defensive lines, allowing players to gain experience with other positions. Cazeau fashioned a toe-tapper that narrowly missed becoming another goal as the whistle blew to a final score of 3-0.

The Wildcats play at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Longwood Field in Reading.

Under 11A girls try to put a sting on the Hornets

The Wilmington Girls U11A Team traveled to North Reading on Saturday, September 15th for their second game of the season. Although it was a beautiful day for soccer, emotions were high as everyone paused for a moment of silence to reflect upon the tragic events of the past week.

Immediately, Wilmington was put on the defensive due to the physically intimidating North Reading Team. Wilmington's defending line of Theresa McMahon, Lisa Rooker and Devon Murphy held strong as Wilmington goalkeeper, Casey Pickett, was able to shut down North Reading shots on goal.

The first aggressive break came as midfield line of Kelly Walsh and Lauren Nasiff, led by Elizabeth Chin, got the ball to the Wilmington front line of Courtney Ryan, Jenelle Femino and Danielle Polcari as they headed toward the opponents goal. It was Stephanie Benson who attempted the first Wilmington shot on goal.

However, the game returned to a defensive posture as the North Reading Team held a steady attack. The Wilmington's defensive play was further strengthened by the efforts of Stefani Warnick, Nicole Bockus, Kristen Browne, and Amanda Church.

A Wilmington breakaway occurred as Charlotte Russo passed the ball to Natalie Russo for a full field run. Although a penalty was charged against the opponents, Wilmington was unsuccessful in scoring a goal on the free kick and the first half ended scoreless.

The second half opened and the tone of the play has changed with Wilmington Team being more aggressive. A power play was led by Danielle Polcari who ran the ball up the left side and executed a well-centered pass goal to awaiting Kelly Walsh and Maureen Worthington.

The first and only Wilmington goal was then scored by Kelly Walsh with a long, sweeping shot over the head of the North Reading goalkeeper's head. North Reading charged back relentlessly firing upon Wilmington's goalkeeper, Nicole Bockus, who had over five additional close saves in the net.

In the last two minutes of the game, the hard charging North Reading Team scored on a corner kick. With little time left, the game ended in a 1-1 tie.

"A Team" leaps over Reading and Watertown

A-Team
Wilmington 33, Reading 7
The A Team started off their season with a huge victory over Reading, 33 to 7.

Joe Herra started off the scoring with the first touchdown of the day, with a great run, thanks to awesome blocking from teammates Shane Simbeck, Matt Marden, Connor Moroney and Tim Kent. Reading didn't keep the ball long after the kickoff as Joe Herra was right there for a fumble recovery.

Steve Downs had one of many great runs to bring it close to the zone. Joe Herra brought it the rest of the way in with a fantastic run for his second touchdown of the day. Again with some terrific blocking from Mike Sorrentino, Eric Steenbruggen and Jim DeSilva. Outstanding defensive play by James McGowan, Jon Maimaron, Nick Duggan and Nick Manent kept the Reading offense frustrated.

Eventually Reading did squeak one score through before the Wildcats took over again. Great blocking from Brendan DeMango, Rick Fudge, Mike Haepers and Will Sampson helped Tim Brady who had one of many awesome runs. This run was into the end zone for the Cats third touchdown along with a good kick that went through the posts for two more.

Great defensive plays by Zack Mayo, Tim Mutter and Brendon Gibson stopped Reading's offense cold. QB Mike Fitzgerald handed off to Phil Minghella who ran for some great yardage. Great lead blocking from Pat Ryan and Chris Crescenzo set up Tom Warford for a fantastic run into the end zone for the Cats fourth touchdown just before the half.

Wilmington came back to dominate the play for the remainder of the game. Just before the end of the game, QB Shaun Doherty threw an awesome pass to Zack Ungvarsky, who made a great catch to bring the Cats within a few yards of the end zone again.

Reading came back slightly, but Joe Herra dashed their hopes when he made yet another unbelievable 20 plus yard run into the end zone for the Cats fifth touchdown of the day. They then topped off the score with an extra point and the game mercifully ended for Reading.

The A-Team would like to thank their cheerleaders, friends and family for their support.

Wilmington A 18 - Watertown 8
The A-Team pulled off a victory in a fierce battle, 18 to 8.

Tough defensive play from Brendon Gibson, Zack Mayo and James McGowan, along with a QB sack by Jon Maimaron kept Watertown at bay. Joe Herra had a great punt return, giving the Cats good field position. Tom Warford and Steve Downs had nice first down runs thanks to the offensive play of Shaun Doherty, Tim Kent and Rick Fudge, but the Cats couldn't quite capitalize.

Watertown took over, but tough defense from Chris Crescenzo and Zack Ungvarsky and the rest of the line resulted in a safety for the Wildcats.

The Cats got the ball again and continued to battle up the field. Tom Warford, Tim Brady and Steve Downs all had good runs supported by more great offensive play from Mike Fitzgerald, Mike Sorrentino, Nick Duggan and Pat Ryan. Watertown took over the ball but were again held still by great defensive play from Tim Mutter and Nick Manent with great tackles

The Cats offense started another push with Tim Brady catching some great blocking from teammates Will Sampson and Jim DeSilva for a great run.

Steady offense from Eric Steenbruggen, Brendan DeMango and Shane Simbeck enabled Steve Downs two nice first down runs along with a great pass reception from Shaun Doherty for another first down. Shaun Doherty threw two more great passes - one to Tom Warford for another first down and one to Steve Downs to put the Cats on the one-yard line.

Unfortunately, the half ended with that play. Wilmington's offense came battling back after the half, with Nick Duggan and Connor Moroney throwing some nice blocks and Steve Downs and Tim Brady having some nice runs.

Watertown got the ball back, but Mike Haepers, Phil Minghella and James McGowan along with the rest of the Cats defense held strong. The Wildcats took over and Joe Herra ran for a series of great first downs all the way to within one yard of the goal line. Pat Ryan got some blocking and pushed into the end zone for a touchdown. Joe Herra's kick was good for another two. Tim Mutter and Zack Ungvarsky and Mike Haepers had terrific defensive play to hold Watertown at a standstill.

Wilmington took over on downs with Tom Warford, Steve Downs and Tim Brady all having great runs to bring the ball close to the zone again. This time it was Steve Downs who got the blocking and was able to push into the end zone for another Wildcat touchdown and the kick was good for 2 more points. Just before the end of the game Watertown scored again, but it wasn't enough to overcome the Wildcats.

The A-Team thanks all of its cheerleaders, friends and family for their support.

B-Team
Wilmington 31, Reading 0

The B-Team came out with an impressive win against Reading this week with a 31-0 victory. Shawn Fahey started off the scoring with a quick touchdown helped by some great blocking from teammates Jerry Smith, Ryan Smiddy and Gerry Gagne.

Great defensive play from Josh Cuhna, Dana Steenbruggen and Josh Mayo kept Reading's offense to a standstill with Dan Patterson almost getting an interception.

The Cats regained possession and a great pass and run from Greg Stewart to Ryan Olivieri moved them quickly down field. Mike Lariffarello had a great run for another first down, setting up another beautifully executed pass from Greg Stewart to Ryan Olivieri who ran it in for the Cats second touchdown. Sean MacSweeney pushed in for the extra point with blocking from Brendan O'Riordan and Josh Bodah.

Reading was held again with some outstanding defensive play from Mike Mastropietro and Donny Lord, then Dana Steenbruggen intercepted a Reading pass attempt and ran it all the way back for another Wildcat score.

After the half, the Wildcats came back strong with Sean MacSweeney and Shawn Fahey running for several first downs until Shawn Fahey ran it in for another touchdown. Both received terrific blocking from teammates Josh Giroux, Gerry Gagne and Ryan Smiddy. The Wildcats took over the rest of the game with Sean MacSweeney having a great run into the zone for a final touchdown for the Wildcats.

The B-Team would like to thank their Cheerleaders for the great cheering and their friends and family for their support.

Wilmington B 41 - Watertown 18

The B-Team overwhelmed Watertown, 41 to 18. Ryan Olivieri started off the scoring by catching a great pass from Greg Stewart.

Watertown didn't do much with this possession thanks to the defensive play of Josh Mayo, Jerry Smith and Josh Giroux, causing a fumble. Awesome blocking from Josh Bodah, Josh Giroux, Ryan Smiddy and Brendan O'Riordan paved the way for the first down runs of Sean MacSweeney, Josh Cuhna, Mike Lariffarello, and Shawn Fahey bringing the Cats down to the goal line. Josh Cuhna had a touchdown run with Greg Stewart running in wide for the extra point.

Watertown didn't keep the ball long thanks to tackles from Greg Stewart, Mike Lariffarello and Jerry Smith. Jerry Smith also blocked their punt attempt.

The Cats took over and quickly moved downfield with a great pass from Greg Stewart to Ryan Olivieri. Blocking from Dana Steenbruggen, Ryan Smiddy, Josh Giroux and Josh Mayo gave Shawn Fahey the opportunity for a touchdown run. Shawn Fahey recovered the kickoff and Wilmington's offense took over the ball again.

Jerry Smith and Brendan O'Riordan provided more great blocking enabling Dana Steenbruggen, and Sean MacSweeney a couple of good runs bringing the ball down to the goal line again. Shawn Fahey pushed the ball into the end zone for his second TD of the game. Greg Stewart ran in the extra point.

Watertown did manage to get in a score. After the half, Watertown came back strong to put another TD on the board, but the Wildcats came right back to answer that with another TD by Ryan Olivieri. A long run off the kickoff by Watertown gave them their third and final TD.

Awesome defense from the Wildcats kept Watertown at bay. The Wildcats scored one more time with a great touchdown run by Shawn Fahey for his third of the day and an extra point was run in by Greg Stewart. There certainly was plenty to cheer about during this game!

The B-Team thanks family and friends for their support, and their cheerleaders for their great cheering.

C-Team
Wilmington 28, Reading 0

The C Team started off the season with a substantial win over Reading, 28 to 0. Ernie Mello began the scoring with a touchdown and an extra point helped by some awesome blocking from teammates Dave Reed and Andrew Valente. Awesome kickoffs by Matt Figueiredo plagued Reading with lousy field position all afternoon.

When Reading did get possession, the Wildcats defense of Joe Gore, Josh Himmel, Dan McCarthy and Lou Cimaglia pushed them literally backward. Tough work by the Cats line eventually pushed Reading into their own zone for a safety. An awesome 30 yard pass from Nick Clark to Anthony Morlani gave the Cats excellent field position.

A fantastic run by Andrew Valente brought the Cats to within a couple of yards of the goal line. Nick Clark snuck in for the touchdown with great blocking from Johnny Kincaid and Jimmy Celeste. A great tackle on Reading's return by Matt Companschi and some tough defense from Cory Groves and Kyle Lunt kept Reading's offense at bay. Nick Clark passed to Joe Gore to put the Wildcats close to the zone again, just as halftime came.

After the half, Ernie Mello made a great tackle on Reading's return coupled with more outstanding defensive play from Kyle Hemenway and Kevin Carter, frustrating Reading and forcing the turnover. Zack Fahey had an awesome 40 yard run followed by another great touchdown run to put the Cats up by six more. He also got some great blocking from Chris Murphy, Tom Baron, John McGowan and Pat Cassidy. Reading's offense was held at a virtual standstill the rest of the game with more outstanding defensive play from Dave Reed and Stephen Baker. A great run by Matt Companschi set the stage for a beautiful touchdown run by Marc Grassia, with the extra point carried in by Nick Clark.

The C team would like to thank their cheerleaders for their great cheering and their friends and family for their support.

Wilmington C 26 - Watertown 0
The C-Team trampled Watertown this past Sunday 26-0. Wilmington's defense was great.

Jimmy Celeste made a great tackle on Watertown's kickoff return. Super defense from Dan McCarthy and Kevin Carter kept Watertown from making any headway. Chris Murphy came up with a great interception to give Wilmington the ball. Excellent blocking from Josh Himmel and Johnny Kincaid gave Ernie Mello some space for a great run.

Watertown got the ball back, but was pushed back with tackles from Nick Clark and Joe Gore. Some terrific blocking from Lou Cimaglia and Stephen Baker opened a hole for Ernie Mello's first touchdown run. Marc Grassia made a great tackle on Watertown's kickoff return. Jimmy Celeste, Kyle Lunt and Nick Clark also made tackles forcing the turnover.

Some more blocking from John McGowan, Stephen Baker and Johnny Kincaid set up a nice run from Ernie Mello, followed by a great touchdown run for Zack Fahey with the extra point carried in by Ernie Mello. Andy Valente made a good tackle on Watertown's return. Pat Cassidy, Tom Barron and Matt Figueiredo all had great defensive play forcing another turnover in downs. Ernie Mello had a nice run for a first down.

This set up Zack Fahey for his second touchdown run. Anthony Morlani ran wide into the end zone to pick up the extra point. Matt Figueiredo made a great kick sending Watertown deep into their own territory. Good defensive play by Cory Groves, David Reed and Kyle Hemenway and some nice tackles from Kyle Lunt and Andrew Valente caused a fumble with the Wildcats recovering just as the half ended. Watertown fumbled the ball again as the second half began.

Continued incredible blocking made way for some great runs by Anthony Morlani. Ernie Mello scored his second touchdown off a beautifully thrown pass from Nick Clark. Matt Companschi came through with a great tackle, and the Cats basically dominated the rest of the game.

The C-Team appreciates all of the cheerleaders, friends and family who traveled to support them.

D Team
Reading 20, Wilmington 6

The Wilmington Wildcats D team lost a hard hitting game to the Reading Rockets. After receiving the opening kickoff, the Wildcats were unable to score even though blocking efforts of Dillon Haliday, Brad Jackson and Scott Sutherland were awesome. Reading took over the ball.

A tough defense was not enough to keep the Rockets out of the end zone, and they scored on the Wildcats.

The Wildcats had some great offensive play from George D'Amelio and Ryan Savini, moving the ball up the field with tough blocking from Billy Reynolds, Domenic McCann and Steve Silva, but the Rockets held them back.

The hard hitting defense of Andrew Companschi, Sam Grant, Justin Rivera and Matt Lariffarello, played a very aggressive game trying to hold back Reading, stopping them for no gain.

Wilmington's offense took over with Frank Sorrentino carrying the ball, gaining some first downs. He had great blocking from Jason Baker, John Moriarty, Dean Moran and Mike Kelly. Wilmington fumbled the ball near the goal line and Reading recovered, just before the half.

Wilmington started the second half kicking off to Reading, trailing 7-0. Wildcats defensive players, Lenny Colomoto, Eric Lunt, David McNee and Steven Souza did their jobs stopping Reading from scoring. Steve Sughrue, Frank Sorrentino and George D'Amelio all had great carries, setting up Anthony Nihan for a touchdown. Making the score 7-6 Reading with the lead.

Fourth quarter began with a great run from Anthony Nihan, with help from blocking efforts of Ryan Giroux, Daniel MacKinnon, Christian Gubitosi, Ron Ditulio and Brett Robbins. Reading stopped Wilmington's momentum, scoring once more. Steve Sughrue had a great run from a kickoff return, giving the Wildcats good field position. Reading turned a pass interception into another touchdown, ending the game 20-6.

The D Team thanks all their parents and friends for their support. The D-Team cheerleaders were wonderful!

Wilmington E Blue 19
Watertown 6
The Wilmington Pop Warner E-Blue team traveled to Watertown

this past Sunday, looking to improve their record to 2-0. The boys in Blue, lead by this week's captains, Michael Brent, Nick D'Amelio, Jaymie Spears and John Baker, had no trouble getting started as the defense set the tone from the opening kickoff.

Tim Barnard boomed the opening kick into Watertown territory and a swarm of blue, led by Antony DePiano converged upon the return man. Watertown's first series was four downs and out, as the Wildcat defense was tenacious. Tom Callahan, Brendan Fullerton, Tyler Valente, Andrew Wells and Nick Girardi effectively stuffed any inside runs by the enemy, while Jim Stokes, Tyler Hubner, David Mello, Anthony Bruce and Travis Valente prevented Watertown from getting outside.

Wilmington's offense tested the inside of the Watertown defense with two dive plays before Jaymie Spears took a handoff around the right end and sprung free of a 40 yard gain behind a crushing block by Matt Toto. On second down from the 10 yard line, quarterback Sean Hanley rolled right and lofted a strike to Nathan Downs in the corner of the endzone. They conversion kick was wide left.

After kicking off, Wilmington sent out their Tiger defense. Josh Bibber, Michael Arria and Joe (Special K) King all contributed to the defensive effort and again Watertown turned the ball over after just four plays.

Wilmington continued to pound the ball at Watertown with Paul Bruce ripping off a 35 yard run deep into the opposition's territory, but penalties stalled the drive.

The defense held one more time and the half ended 6-0 Wilmington.

Wilmington received the ball to open the second half and Hanley bootlegged around the left end for 35 yards to the Watertown 21 yard line. Steve Taylor threw a crushing block on the outside linebacker to make this play work. A Hanley to Spears strike brought the ball down to the one, where Sean dove in for the touchdown on the next play. For the conversion, Sean threw to David Mello and the Cats were in command 13-0.

Watertown scored on a long run against the younger Wilmington defense before the Wildcats posted their final score. After having had a 55 yard touchdown run around the right end called back for a penalty, Mr. Spears showed everyone that it was no fluke and he took a dive up the middle 60 yards for the final score of the day.

The offense would not have been

Mighty Mite Whites

Reading 0-Wilmington 0

On a beautiful September day in New England, Wilmington Pop Warner opened their 2001 season against neighboring rival Reading at Palmer Field in Wilmington. The 2001 Wilmington Pop Warner season has been dedicated to old number 35, Dick Gillis, former coach, mentor and general supporter of Wilmington Pop Warner who recently passed away from a long bout with cancer.

The first team up for Wilmington was the Mighty Mite "White" who didn't disappoint, posting a 0-0 tie against a much more experienced Reading team. Wilmington received the opening kickoff but couldn't post much offense as they worked out some early team jitters.

As Reading took over on downs they proceeded to try to exploit the middle of the Wilmington defense only to be stonewalled by Jimmy Welch, Connor Brennan, Patrick Magliano and Scott Layton. With a shift in strategy Reading attempted to open up the outside by faking up the middle and running right at first year cornerback Derek Queen.

Derek stood up to the challenge like a veteran player making two excellent open field tackles. Derek also made a leaping interception in one of Reading's failed pass attempts. Wilmington moved the ball a little more consistently as the half wore on behind the fine offensive line play of Derek Mayo, Ryan Malone, Killian Smith, Erik Dell'Anno and Will Prince.

Reading began mounting a semblance of a drive just before the half when the "human highlight film" defensive end Evan Butters took over the game with several outstanding plays. The major play being his sacking of the quarterback and recovery of the ensuing fumble.

The second half had more of the same as Wilmington and Reading kept exchanging the football on downs. After having no success running right, Reading attempted to run left at Wilmington's other first year cornerback, Steven Reynolds who turned in several fine open field tackles.

Also contributing with strong defensive play were Wilmington's killer bee safeties Nolan Giroux and Matt McKenna who stopped several of Reading's runners with solid hits throughout the game. Overall it was an excellent team effort and a good game to build on as Wilmington White looks forward to taking on Chelmsford in its first away game.

Wilmington E White coaches would like to thank all those who contributed to make the 2001 sticker drive a success.

Mighty Mite Whites 25, Chelmsford 6

On another beautiful day for football the Wilmington Mighty Mites White took on a young Chelmsford team and came away with a 25-6 victory. Wilmington won the coin toss and chose to receive. Evan Butters returned the kick to the Chelmsford 40 yard line. After unsuccessfully handling the ball on the first three plays, Evan followed the lead blocks of Kevin Moriarty, Derek Queen and Nolan Giroux around left end for a touchdown.

The extra point attempt was unsuccessful. Chelmsford received the kick and started their first series from their own 40 yard line.

On Chelmsford's first play from scrimmage, Wilmington's Jimmy Welch shot across the line slamming the running back causing a fumble, which Wilmington recovered. On the second play of the series Kevin Moriarty streaked through the line for a nifty 40 yard touchdown run. Wilmington dominated on defense with either of its white or green defenses.

Playing solid on green defense were Matthew Costello, Patrick Dunn, Corey Lee, Timothy McCarthy, Ryan Walsh and Michael Wandell. With its power of seven red offense, Wilmington pounded the ball down the field on a sustained drive of 60 yards with Kevin Moriarty scoring on a quarterback keeper as Wilmington took an 18-0 lead into the half.

Dominating on the offensive line for Wilmington were Ryan Malone, Conor Brennan, Daniel D'Arcangelo, James Perry, Steven Reynolds, David Rygiel and Alexander Williams. Chelmsford found its bearings in the second half and put together a sustained drive for its only score of the game.

With the score 18-6 and Chelmsford's spirit running high, Wilmington's Evan Butters scooped up the ensuing kick returning it 70 crowd pleasing yards for the touchdown. Scotty "I have dancing feet" Layton pounded home the extra point.

Other highlights included an interception by Nolan Giroux, a spirited 15 yard run by Erik Dell'Anno and couple of pancake blocks by Killian Smith and Derek Mayo. Also playing solid two way, play me anywhere football for Wilmington were Matthew McKenna, John Parsons, Kyle Skinner and Derek Queen.

Squirt D's take care of Methuen

With summer still in the rear view mirror, the Wilmington Squirt D team kicked off the 2001-2002 hockey season in grand style last Saturday by defeating Methuen 9-1 at Merrimack College.

Wilmington dominated all aspects of this contest from beginning to end with a strong team effort, and outshot the Rangers 14-7. The game also had a couple of standout individual performances, with two players notching hat tricks and first time goalie Zach Rosa making a stellar debut in net.

In the first period, the D's scored four unanswered goals. John Moriarty started it off early in the first when he took a nice feed from defenseman Alex Williams in Wilmington's zone, skated it up and stroked it by the Methuen goalie. Dominic McCann followed suit less than a minute later with a shot from the left side that found its mark and gave Wilmington a quick 2-0 lead. Andrew Flodin got the assist.

McCann again struck later in the period with a backhand from an impossible angle on the left side of the net that hit the Methuen goalie and ricocheted in for the D's third score. Moriarty then complemented McCann's goal a couple of minutes later when he knocked in the rebound from a Bret Kidik shot to close out the period at Wilmington 4, Methuen 0.

Sean Tavares also came through with a defensive gem, breaking up a one-on-one attempt that would have surely tested Rosa and possibly put Methuen on the board.

The second frame was considerably quieter, with the exception of the loud roar that came from John Moriarty at 7:36 of the period. It was then that Moriarty hit in a deflected shot of teammate Bred Kidik to earn himself a hat trick and give Wilmington a five goal lead.

Defensemen Brian Fitzpatrick, Andrew Flodin, Kyle Gaffey and Alex Williams and netminder Rosa also made their present felt, holding the Rangers scoreless for the second consecutive period. Forwards Tommy Callahan and Sammy Grant contributed with some strong backchecking that kept the puck in Methuen's end for a good part of the period.

Wilmington picked up offensive steam again in the third with four more goals from John See, Cole Carter, Dominic McCann and Brian Coutu.

See's goal was an unassisted skate-and-shoot screamer from the center that split the posts. Carter got his goal three minutes into the period when he alertly poked the puck in during a mad scramble in front of the net. McCann's goal, assisted by Andrew Flodin, gave him a hat trick, Wilmington's second of the game.

The D's final goal came with 5:49 left when Brian Fitzpatrick, bounced a hard shot from the left side of the Methuen goalie's pads, and Brian Coutu quickly moved in and flipped the rebound into the open right corner.

Methuen scored its lone goal of the game at 5:16 of the third period on a loose puck that Rosa pounced on just after it had skidded across the line.

Rosa stopped six of seven shots, lodged at him during the game, and looked like a veteran in an impressive first outing between the pipes.

Next weekend, Wilmington will take on Reading on Saturday, and then begin its Dual State season on Sunday against Winchester.

Squirt C's score 11 against Beverly

The Wilmington Squirt C's moved to 2-0 in the Valley League parity season as they soundly defeated Beverly 11-1 last Sunday at the Ristuccia Center. The players wore ribbons on their uniforms, thanks to Mrs. Duffy, in memory of the week's national events.

Most of the first period saw both teams skating up and down but after Wilmington killed off back to back penalties they struck for the game's first goal.

At 4:54 Ryan Kennedy got the puck out of the right corner to Brendan Collins in front. Collins knocked it in, making the score 1-0. With four seconds left in the period Kennedy passed up to center Paul Duffy. Duffy broke in, shot and then put in his own rebound.

Wilmington opened the second period with another goal as defensemen Charles Barbaro and Chris Robertson kept the puck in the zone and up to Patrick Boudreau. Boudreau's shot from about fifteen feet out broke through the Beverly goalie.

At 8:42 Beverly came back as a forward skated down the left side and used the defense as a screen, shooting one past goalie Steve Cadigan.

That goal was the only break Beverly would see in this period as Wilmington turned it on, scoring three more goals and thoroughly outplaying their opponent. At 7:54 defenseman Cody Wilkins skated three quarters the length of the ice and blasted a shot to the top left corner.

Two minutes later Kennedy stole the puck at the blue line, rushed down the right side and moved across the front, back-handing a shot past the goaltender.

One minute after that goal, Boudreau scored his second of the game after his wingers Eric Parsons and Matt Larfarello, along with Robertson moving up from the blue line, fought to push the puck in front. Boudreau jammed it in, putting Wilmington up 6-1 after two periods.

Beverly managed some sustained pressure early in the third period but the quick saves by Cadigan, the solid defense of Barbaro, Wilkins and Robertson and smart back-checking by Larfarello and Charlie Gendron kept them off the board. On one broken play in front

Beverly tried to stuff the puck in but Cadigan stood his ground. The remainder of the game was all Wilmington. At 8:36 Collins scored his second goal after center Pat Enwright carried the puck behind the net and fed him in front.

Several minutes later, Enwright got a goal of his own when Gendron found him at the crease. Just off the face-off Gendron lit the lamp after Enwright won the drop and winger Sean Keane passed up to him.

At the 1:30 mark Robertson broke up a play and got the puck up to Duffy. Duffy skated up the left side and fed a perfect pass up to Kennedy, open on the right side of the goal. Kennedy backhanded the pass in, scoring his second goal and forth point of the game.

With only :04 remaining, Larfarello flipped the puck across the front and it broke past the Beverly goalie for the final goal, giving Wilmington a lopsided 11-1 victory.

Next Sunday the Squirt C's, sponsored by the Wilmington Arena Authority, will be in action twice as they open their Dual State parity season at Everett and then return to the Ristuccia Center for an afternoon Valley League contest against North Middlesex.

Pee Wee B's unite together

On September 15, 2001, 14 young men were brought together from the different regions of Tewksbury with one task on their minds, turn 14 warriors into one group, one force, ONE TEAM, the PeeWee B's. their mission, travel to the frozen battle field of the Methuen High School Rink, and have it out with the hometown gang.

This would not be an easy task, they're big, tough and nasty, and looking for their first victory of the young season. The stage is now set for a battle of epic proportions, before the puck is dropped, these two teams line up on their designated blue lines and face "OLD GLORY" The flag of THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, for a 15 second moment of silence to pray for the brave Americans who lost their lives in the cowardly attack on the WTC and the Pentagon just four days ago.

The puck was dropped and the new season began. The first period was as all first periods are, a feeling out time, still a hard fought period that began to do one thing, form 14 of Tewksbury's finest into one team, it worked well. When the buzzer sound there was no score, the jitters were gone, it was now time to play hockey the way the game was meant to be played.

The second period started, and the real battle had begun, it was classic back and forth offensive and defensive struggles, with the goalies stopping everything and anything that was thrown at them. Tewksbury's goalie Big Mike Procacini was huge, his pads, stick, and blockers were working great until two Methuen players found a hole with 6:14 left in the period.

Without skipping a beat the offensive line of Sean O'Hare, T.J. Greene, and Cris Noyes took control of the game, they pressed, and pounded and passed, simply baffling the opponents, how the second period ended with the Redmen still down a goal was shocking.

With the hearts of lions the Redmen started the third period as they ended the second, with first year pee wee Tom MacLeod centering two of the games best wings Joe Ginsburg, and Shane Mirisola, peppering the goalie with shots, as MacLeod was a Patton like commander on the ice, being robbed, of his own goal, he set the stage for Ginsburg, to feed Mirisola a sweet pass down low to tie the game with 11:11 left to play.

The next five minutes were brutal, the Tewksbury defense worked overtime, with Nick and Matt Danecki forcing play to the boards and recovering the puck, giving the forwards all the "D" the breathing room they needed, and giving Procacini a feeling of relief.

But alas that crew from Methuen did it again, they popped one over the stick side shoulder of Mike P, one of the hardest shots to stop in hockey, and Procacini just missed it. It was up to the front line of center Jim McGonigle and two sharp shooting wingers who go by the names Dan Adams, and Mike Taylor, with the help of first year pee wee defense sensation Bobby Bennett, and Christian Murray who stepped out of his regular offensive position to help the team out in a big way on the defense.

The Redmen started up the ice led by Jim McGonigle who opened an alley for Adams to slip a pass on the stick of Taylor who fired one almost thru the net, making it a 2-2 game, with 3:46 left.

Football Season

Rams find the easy path for second win

Sports Correspondent

After it graduated almost its entire starting team from last season, many doubted the Shawsheen Tech football team's to match its success of the 2000 season.

Well, for now those doubters can eat their words.

The Rams, who last season came one play away from the Super Bowl, improved to 2-0 Saturday with a road win in Palmer, 23-6, at Pathfinder High.

Derek Vacca, who scored three touchdowns in Shawsheen's first win of the season, scored once again in this win and totaled 146 rushing yards on 18 carries. The Rams running game also featured tailbacks Nick Maynard (seven carries, 32 yards, one score) and Kimathi Johnson (10 carries, 54 yards), and fullback Jamie Martines (six carries, 31 yards).

"We definitely did very, very well offensively," said Shawsheen head coach Al Costabile. "We ran the ball very well and we didn't throw as much as we thought we were going to have to go into the game. We were able to move the ball better than expected."

On a day when the offense shined, it was actually the defense that scored first for Shawsheen. Jeremy Verrocchio and Wilmington's John Dell'Amo combined to sack the Pathfinder quarterback in the end zone for a safety and a 2-0 Rams lead.

The score remained that way until the second quarter when Vacca scored his only touchdown of the game on a 3-yard run. He added the extra point kick for a 9-0 Shawsheen lead.

Pathfinder halfback Jesse Allen brought his team back into the game with 10-yard touchdown run. However, Shawsheen's defense did a better job on the 6-foot-1, 205-pound Allen than it did on Arlington Catholic's Ernie Ardolino (over 200 yards) in Week 1.

"The kids turned it up a notch," said Costabile. "We told them all they had to. We had given up 230 yards to a halfback last weekend and we knew we couldn't do that again. The kids did the job."

Pathfinder missed the point after and left Shawsheen with a 9-6 lead. The Rams closed out the first half scoring on a 38-yard touchdown pass from sophomore quarterback Matt Williams to Rick Crea for a 15-6 lead.

Crea caught three passes for 65 yards in the game, while Williams finished 4-of-9 passing for 68 yards and one touchdown.

"I thought the offensive line did a better job than it did opening day," said Costabile.

In the second half, Shawsheen ate up clock like the Bill Parcells-coached New York Giants teams of the early '90s.

"What it came down to was they only had two plays in the entire third quarter," said Costabile. "And only had a handful in the fourth. We had a long drive with a fumble on the 1 and we controlled the clock."

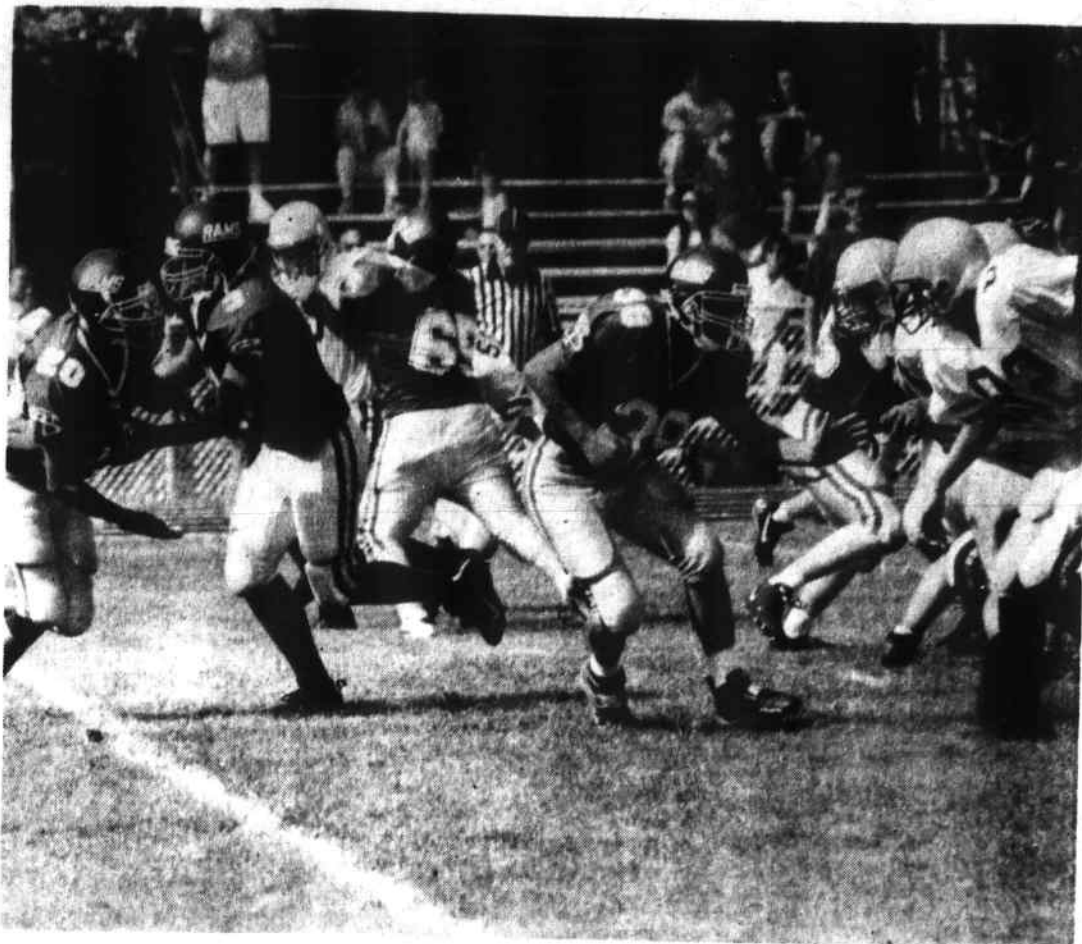

Early in the fourth quarter, Maynard rushed across the goal line for a 3-yard touchdown. Williams then connected with Joe Esposito on the two-point conversion to provide the game's final scoring and a 23-6 lead.

The Rams then went on a 16-play drive for nearly eight minutes to completely snuff out Pathfinder. While Shawsheen wound up fumbling at the Pathfinder 1-yard line, the Rams had the opposition right where they wanted them.

"It's a matter of the offensive line be able to establish our run," said Costabile. "Williams going 4-for-9 did a good job to compliment the run. But the running game got it done and he complimented the running game."

Next up for Shawsheen is a road game against Boston English, which stands at 1-1 on the season after beating O'Bryant.

"I was very impressed with their size and their athletic play," said Costabile of his upcoming opponent. "We're going to have to come and play hard on Saturday at Boston English."

Wildcats take care of business in unforgettable week

Sports Correspondent

What was a very somber, shortened week of practice in light of Tuesday's terrorist actions in New York and Washington, D.C., ended in jubilant fashion for the Wilmington High football team on Friday night.

Led by senior George Godding's 127 rushing yards and three touchdowns, the Wildcats made the home-opener crowd forget about the disaster for a couple of hours with a 40-8 rout of Amesbury High in a Cape Ann League contest.

"I was anxious to get back to practice Wednesday," said Wilmington head coach Bob Almeida, whose team didn't practice Tuesday afternoon in light of what was going on around the country. "Our focus wasn't really there on Wednesday and that (the attacks) might have been a contributing factor to it."

"But I'm really pleased for our kids that they pulled this thing together. We had a great practice [on Thursday] and with two days practice we were able to come out and put this kind of an effort in."

The night started with a candle lighting ceremony that included players, coaches, cheerleaders and fans. After the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America" and a moment of silence was held, Godding took over.

"I think they were really excited to play," said Almeida. "They were very focused. They were very anxious to play this game and very anxious to prove themselves. This group has been playing behind that outstanding senior class that we had last year and they haven't played a lot of downs these kids. That's why it was such a big thing for us. They want to prove themselves."

Amesbury (0-2) went four-and-out on its first possession, allowing Wilmington (2-0) to start out at its own 36-yard line. Five plays later, Godding rushed for a 56-yard score. Dereck Downs added the kick and the Wildcats never looked back.

"This weekend, our focus was to get the offense on track," said Almeida. "And we were able to do that."

Wilmington's defense held Amesbury to a four-and-out again on the Fighting Indians' second possession. The play ended with an Amesbury punt attempt gone awry because of a bad snap. Wilmington took possession at the Amesbury 1-yard line and four plays later scored on a 2-yard rush by Godding.

Amesbury sustained a decent drive on its next possession and made it all the way to the Wilmington 10-yard line. However, on a fourth-and-eight, Dave DeMango pressured quarterback Rick Roaf, and Mike Senarian finished him off for a sack.

With the score 20-0, after a 30-yard scoring run by Godding, quarterback Mike Herra stole a little of the spotlight from his tri-captain partner by throwing his first varsity pass completion. The play went 22 yards to Jay Riley, who dashed for the first varsity touchdown of his career.

"The play that he made on that touchdown, that was the second receiver," said Almeida, about his quarterback who completed just 1-for-4 passing all night. "They jumped on (senior receiver Nick) Gennetti and the tight end came free and he saw it. That's the kind of thing that Mike Herra can do for us, that I think he's going to be doing for the rest of this season."

"I'm thrilled for him. This is the type of thing we need to get his confidence up."

Derek Hanley, who rushed for 64 yards on seven carries, opened the second half scoring with a 19-yard touchdown run of his own just before the end of the third quarter. The play capped a seven-play drive.

Amesbury's only attempt to get into the game came on its next possession as the Fighting Indians went on a 14-play drive. Captain Eric Chochrek, who rushed for 31 yards in the game, dashed 13 yards for Amesbury's only score.

Three plays later, Wilmington answered as Chris Minghella rushed in from 14 yards out for the night's final scoring play.

Wilmington-Masconomet preview

By George, can he do it again?

Wilmington High football coach Bob Almeida and his counterpart at Masconomet High Jim Pugh might be on opposite sides in the Cape Ann League, but there's one thing they definitely agree on.

The two coaches, who will face each other in Topsfield on Saturday (1:30 pm), both know that Wilmington senior running back George Godding can control the outcome of the game with his rushing ability.

"You could see that Godding is one of the best backs in the league, if he's not the best," said Almeida after Godding rushed for 127 yards and three touchdowns in Wilmington's 40-8 win over Amesbury last Friday.

Added Pugh, "Godding is as good as anyone in this league. I'd say right now he's the top back in the league, so it's going to be a challenge."

However, Wilmington, which is now 2-0, is more than a one-man team. Junior running back Derek Hanley and senior quarterback Mike Herra provide the Wildcats with a more diverse offense. Herra even registered his first career varsity pass completion in the Amesbury win. Running back Dave DeMango, a sophomore, will also get some touches.

If the Wildcats go the air, his backfield mates are some of his best targets. But he also has wingback Nick Gennetti, a senior, and senior wide receiver Valance Nwachukwu. Tight end Jay Riley is another passing option. The senior caught his first varsity touchdown pass on the same play that highlighted Herra's night against Amesbury.

On the offensive line, making holes for Godding and protecting Herra, are Chris McHale, Steve Haepers, Mike Senarian, Bob Harrington, Dereck Downs and Mike Harrison.

Defensively, Wilmington's linebackers and secondary are going to be heavily tested against a Masconomet team that likes to mix it up and more importantly, can mix it up.

Godding, Hanley, DeMango and Senarian will be valuable at the linebacker positions. Senior cornerbacks Dave Aronofsky and Gennetti will also be factors in trying to slow down Masco receiver Rob Dreesen.

Throwing the ball to Dreesen will be quarterback Nick Eddy, who is off to an outstanding start this season. Masco is 1-1 after losing to Triton in Week 1. However, Masco bounced back and trounced Lynnfield 20-0 last week.

"They're supposed to be one of the best teams in the league," said Almeida, whose team beat Masco, 31-0, in 2000. "They're a very experienced team, so we'll more than have our hands full next week."

Said Pugh, "We think we have a lot of seniors, a lot of returning starters and we feel we can be right in the mix this season."

When Dreesen doesn't throw, he hands off to one of his two talented running backs. Seniors Wayne Maribito and Joe Bavaro are both off to great starts this season.

"We like to mix it up," said Pugh.

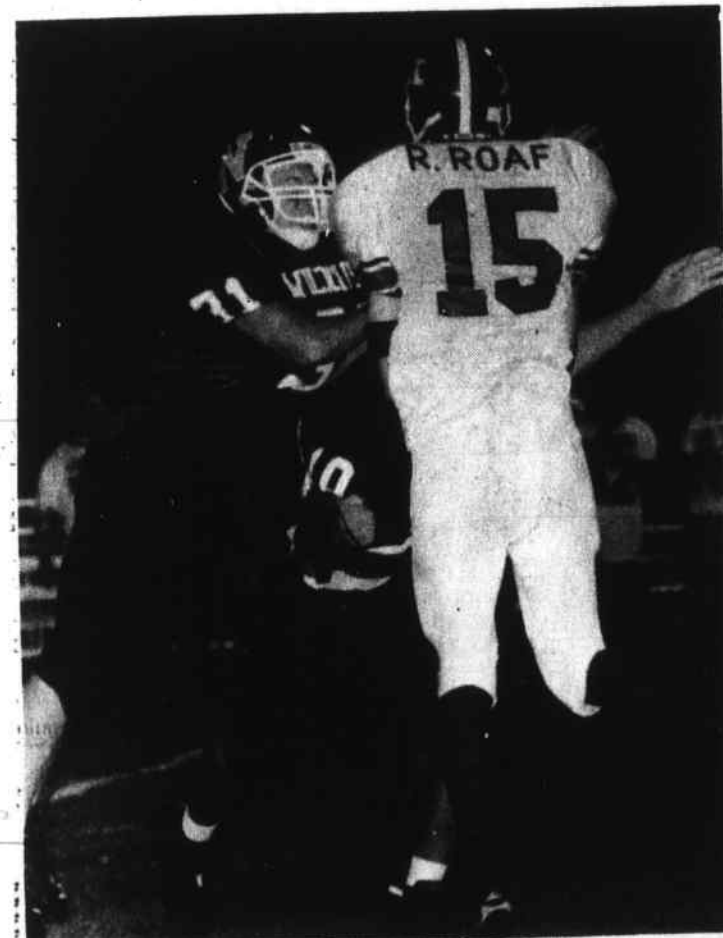

Defensively, Masco is led by outside linebacker Scott Roder and inside linebacker Ryan McCarthy. Those two will be expected to do the most they can do to contain Godding.

"If he (Godding) gets into the backfield, he's trouble," said Pugh.

As for a prediction this week, it's tough to pick against the home town team after the way the Wildcats played the first two weeks of the season. Masco is certainly their toughest test thus far, but if the offensively line and the defense do their jobs, Wilmington can squeak out a close victory.

Coach Almeida said it best after the Amesbury game: "If we play with the same intensity and execution that we did tonight, we should be okay."

Prediction: Wilmington 14, Masco 13.

Last year Wilmington native Ryan Layton had a sensational year in the backfield for Malden Catholic. On Friday, September 7, he went from having a sensational year to a game that will be remembered in the record books.

What is believed to be a school record, and what's certainly known as an individual effort which grabbed the headlines, Layton scored five touchdowns and rushed for 305 yards to lead Malden Catholic to an 40-22 victory over Xaverian High of New York in a non-league game.

Layton is being recruited by many Division 1 and Division 1AA colleges. Last year he rushed for 1,450 yards.

This past Saturday, Ryan Layton rushed for over 100 yards and scored two touchdowns in the team's 28-7 non-league win over Sharon on Saturday. Ryan's brother Sean, also had a big game scoring the team's other two touchdowns.

Malden Catholic will host Lincoln-Sudbury this week for another non-league game. Their biggest challenges will come on September 28 with Xaverian, October 12th with Catholic Memorial and October 26 with BC High.

Football Season

'Tide to rough for Redmen

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Seven days after beating a Greater Boston League opponent in dramatic fashion, the Tewksbury High football team went up against yet another GBL team.

This one didn't fare as well. For the fourth straight year, Tewksbury fell to a very powerful Everett team.

This year's Crimson Tide team is very young with 32 sophomores on the team, and a freshman as the team's starting quarterback. Yet, the GBL proved to be too much this time around as Everett blanked Tewksbury, 22-0, Saturday afternoon at Everett's Memorial Stadium.

Tewksbury played much better than what the score indicates, but many dropped passes and struggling to run the ball offensively hurt Tewksbury, while Everett's Darryl Doe scored on an 85-yard run on the first offensive play for the Tide and that also hurt the Redmen's chances dramatically.

"I think we had nine dropped passes in the first half and against a team of this caliber you can't have that," said coach Brian Aylward. "We gave away a lot of downs - big downs and against a tough team like this you can't give those opportunities away."

Tewksbury's offense had a new look with senior Arnie Martel taking over at quarterback after the injury to Mike Rocco, who'll be out another month or so with a broken ankle. Martel, also a southpaw, had a terrific game. He completed just 7-of-17 passes for 77 yards, but he was poised, he made smart decisions, he threw a nice ball and certainly put the ball out right where the receivers needed it to be. Martel did make two ill-advised passes (one intercepted), but take away those two and the kid was brilliant. He just didn't get any help.

"Arnie did play great," said Aylward. "A lot of people really questioned Arnie to see if he would or could step up. I had no doubt in my mind that he could take this role and perform well. No one can look at Arnie after this game saying he didn't come through because he had a great game and he did step up."

Tewksbury started the game with the ball on its own 24. On third-and-11 Martel hooked up with a wide-open Matt McGinnis over the middle for a huge 16 yard, first down conversion. A few plays later Martel hit Adam Hill with a completion, but a 10-yard penalty was called on Tewksbury which ultimately forced Bob Ullo to punt a gorgeous 46 yarder.

Everett took over at their own 10 yard line and Tewksbury was called for another penalty, moving the ball to the 15. That's when Doe took the hand-off right up the middle before cutting to his right going untouched for a beautiful 85-yard touchdown run.

Everett lined up for the conversion kick, but the snap turned into a groundball to the shortstop and holder Ross Pietrantonio picked the ball up, and passed it to a wide-open Danny Sullivan in the end zone to make it 8-0 with 5:35 to go in the first quarter.

Tewksbury managed two first downs on their next series, but a fourth down incomplete pass just went off the finger tips of a diving McGinnis in the end zone to give Everett the ball back.

After both teams exchanged punts, Everett strung together a 10-play drive going to the Tewks-bury 24 yard line, but on second down, Billy Meuse picked off a throw at the 7-yard line neglecting a score for Everett. Tewksbury was forced to punt and Everett had great field position at the Redmen 35 yard line. Five plays later fullback Tom Lam scored Everett's second touchdown on a 1-yard plunge making it 15-0 after the PAT from Andrea Rutigliano was good.

Tewksbury had just 53 seconds to string together a quick drive and after two dropped passes, McGinnis made a sensational 27-yard catch fighting for the ball inbetween two defenders and keeping his feet inside the sidelines after a great diving grab.

After a 5-yard penalty against Everett moving the ball to the Tewksbury 43, the Redmen tried a draw play and John Drinkwater moved the ball 9 yards. With just one second left in the half, a flea flicker failed and Tewksbury trailed 16-0 at halftime.

Everett scored their final touchdown of the game on the opening drive of the third quarter as Gennaro Leo went in on a 22-yard carry and the PAT kick was good making it 22-0.

Tewksbury did answer right back starting a drive on its own 27 and moving it to the Everett 25. On second and 7 from the 26, Drinkwater managed just a yard on a run off tackle, and Martel was stuffed at the line of scrimmage on a draw play forcing him to throw into the end zone on fourth down but the toss was incomplete.

Both teams didn't get much going after that offensively and Everett walked away with the 22-0 victory to improve to 2-0 on the season, and Tewksbury went to 1-1 thus far.

Big game on Friday Redmen to face roaring Lions

be a one game wonder or could be the next 1,500 yard rusher Chelmsford has to go through their program.

"To be honest in a big game like this against Tewksbury, to have three starting sophomore tailbacks isn't really what we want," said Rich. "We'd much rather have some experience. But David had a great game for us and a few other guys are coming along so hopefully we can get the running game going again."

There's no question Chelmsford can and most likely will put points up on the scoreboard. And that's when Tewksbury's defense comes to play. Led by linebackers James McCarthy and Ryan Bryne, as well as Bill Meuse who has an interception in each of the first two games, and the Redmen will certainly be tested this Friday night.

"McCarthy is a heck of a ball player," said Rich. "We watched him against Cambridge and he was all over the place making plays. He stunts a lot too. I think one of the biggest keys for us is to stop him. If we neutralize him and the other linebackers, protect our quarterback, then we should be OK."

As for Tewksbury's offense, well assuming last week's mistakes are corrected they should be able to move the ball. Senior quarterback Arnie Martel looked very, very good last week. He throws a nice ball, makes smart decisions with the ball and he looks and sets himself before every throw which is so pivotal when making an attempt.

If Tewksbury wants to win this game they can't have all of the dropped passes it has last week. Just one drop pass this week could hurt them, nevermind nearly 10 of them.

Martel will make things happen. Wide out Matt McGinnis looks as if he could really emerge as a top flight receiver. The biggest key for Tewksbury is establishing the run game - they can't have Martel look to pass on every down. Last week Tewksbury managed just 72 rushing yards on 26 carries (2.77 average per carry) and to be honest that can't happen if the Redmen want to beat Chelmsford.

Keys to the Game (for Chelmsford). One of the biggest keys in any game, nevermind a big game, is ball control. And ball control for the Lions will be huge. So will third down conversions. Chelmsford has to keep the ball, move the ball and establish both a running and a passing game.

Defensively they have to stop Tewksbury as much as possible. The Redmen's offense should be very hungry this week to cause damage against the reigning MVC Champs.

(For Tewksbury) - Last year penalties and turnovers killed Tewksbury in the loss at home to Chelmsford. That just can't happen. None of it. They have to nearly perfect football. No big penalties, no turnovers and no dropped passes.

Offensively, Tewksbury should be able to score. Defense will be the team's question. As much as the offense has to step up this week, so does the defense. Brown will be throwing everywhere, looking at any targets he can find whether a 10-yard screen pass, a 20-yard slant or a 50-yard bomb. Certainly Tewksbury's secondary has to be on its toes.

Tewksbury has to convert on third downs, has to keep the ball as much as possible so the powerful Chelmsford offense doesn't keep coming back onto the field. If Tewksbury has several three-and-outs early on, it could be a very long afternoon.

Also the last key for Tewksbury will be special teams. If Bob Ullo is healthy enough to unleash his 40 yard punts, that could also be very vital to the team's success.

Prediction: I believe this is going to be a very good game. I think a much better Tewksbury team will show up and give Chelmsford a run for their money. I think it's going to be a very high offensive game - a lot of shotgun passes, a lot of hurry up offenses.

I also think this might sound crazy after just watching him perform in one game, but I think Arnie Martel has the capability of leading his troops to a big win if he gets help. A lot of help.

I firmly believe that Tewksbury can beat Chelmsford, only if they play perfect football. But in order to do that they have to establish a run game, so the burden isn't on the receivers.

But, one of the things I really like about Chelmsford is their experience. They know how to win. They did it last week. They trailed 21-0 after 10 minutes and came back to win 28-21 against a very good Acton-Boxboro program. That's what teams that go to the Super Bowl know how to do.

Tewksbury is very young so they don't have that yet, and how could they?

My prediction - Chelmsford wins, 35-33.

Big game on Friday Redmen to face roaring Lions

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Every year Tewksbury and Chelmsford hook up and every year it's a big game. And although this is just the first league game for both teams, this is a huge one.

Tewksbury (1-1) comes into Friday night's game (7:00 pm, Chelmsford High) needing to get back in the win column, and needing to put some points back on the scoreboard. Last week they played well, but they had trouble getting the run game going and many dropped passes really hurt them in crucial times.

"It's the biggest game for us," said Tewksbury coach Brian Aylward. "We don't have time to feel sorry for ourselves. We have to learn from our mistakes and get back to the field and correct them. Chelmsford has one of the best tight ends around - the kid is a monster."

"They are very good up front, probably bigger than a year ago. I wouldn't be surprised if they think they are better than they were a year ago, nor would I be surprised if they are better than they were a year ago. We have to go back at it on Monday and prepare the best we can for them."

Chelmsford (1-0) comes into the game as the reigning MVC Champs who lost in one of the Division 2 Super Bowls to Reading, 23-13. They return three very good offensive players, but the team's defense is very young with only one returning starter back.

Both teams come into the game needing this powerful MVC win. Tewksbury needs to come out with the victory - set the tone for the league, steal an away victory. They haven't won a big game in a while and this is a big game.

Chelmsford needs this victory to get them going within the league. With Billerica suppose to be the team to beat along with Chelmsford, the Lions can't afford a loss in the first week of season, hoping they can go undefeated the rest of the season until they meet up with Billerica.

"We know Tewksbury is a well coached team," said Chelmsford coach Bruce Rich. "Brian does a great job over there. They are always prepared and they study opponents very well. I think the days of Tewksbury saying they are a small football team is over. They can't cry about that anymore. They're huge. I mean you can hear a rumble when they come out on to the field."

"They have some guys who are immovable objects. Those 300 pound guys won't be easy to move, so we're going to have to go over or around them because we won't be able to go through them."

Last week Chelmsford rallied from an 21-0 deficit after the first quarter to beat Acton-Boxboro, 28-21, in an exciting non-league game. After injuries to his first three running backs, Rich (6th year as head coach, 24 years in the program) went to sophomore David Leach and all he did was score four touchdowns and rush for 130 yards in his first varsity start.

"We're confident that we can move the ball several different ways," said Rich. "There's no question that we need the running game to balance our passing game. In high school football you need to be balanced."

If anyone witnessed last year's Tewksbury-Chelmsford game (34-13 win for Chelmsford) then you know all about how good and effective the Lions quarterback Mark Brown (5-11, 175) is. Brown, whose father went and played at TMHS, completed 13-of-24 passes last week for 170 yards. Last year against Tewksbury, Brown completed 17-of-20 passes for 251 yards - and it was just his second varsity start.

Brown's number one target is wide out Jeff Smart (6-2, 180), who caught five passes last week for 75 yards. Smart and Brown will be all-scholastic players, and so is tight end Jesse Erhartic, who stands at 6-6. Erhartic is a great blocking tight end but he also can catch (4 of them last week for 45 yards). Both Smart and Erhartic are being recruited and Rich said they will both go at least 1AA, possibly Division One. Add to that Leach, who could

Local Football teams try to deal with country's tragedy

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It was the most horrific week for all of Americans. The country will forever mourn the losses of the people who were killed this week, not to mention the cities New York and Washington DC which were left basically to rubble.

After Tuesday's tragedy, President Bush urged Americans to go back to their normal lives as best as they could. Here in the small suburban towns of Wilmington and Tewksbury people here tried to do that. And here in the sports world of these small suburban towns where obviously any high school match doesn't mean anything compared to what the country has gone through, the country has asked its people to go back to the lives they live, and the kids, the teachers, the coaches and the parents tried to do that as best as they could.

For the local high school football teams, the week before a game certainly wasn't the normal routine. Wilmington head coach Bob Almeida canceled practice on Tuesday and called for a team meeting to discuss the nature of what happened and to discuss "life".

On Friday night, the Wilmington High football team got ready to host Amesbury at Alumni Field under the lights. Before the opening kick-off the town held a first class ceremony on the field to remember those who were lost. Wilmington firefighters and Wilmington Police Officers joined the two football teams' captains, coaches, cheerleading captains and members of each other's bands at midfield to light candles showing the display of the country staying as strong as it could during this chaos.

After the candles were lit, the Wilmington High band beautiful played "Taps", "God Bless America" and the "National Anthem" and the band should be commended as it was absolutely beautiful, very touching and very moving.

It was a week no one from this country will ever forget. And Friday night's tremendous salute from the town of Wilmington to those victims was top notch.

Two of Wilmington's three football captains, Chris McHale and George Godding were asked about the week and in their football world how things changed for them.

"The tragedy happened on Tuesday and we didn't practice so we were already behind," said Godding. "On Wednesday it was the worst practice I've ever seen here. Everyone was really down - what happened really affected everyone. The coaches were upset, the players were upset and we just tried to tell everyone to calm down, go home to their families and be with them. We talked with everyone so they all knew what happened and they understood what happened."

Said McHale, "The coaches tried to the best they could to prepare us and to keep our heads in it. But it was very, very hard. We had a good practice [on Thursday] and I think it really brought the team together. It's very hard for a young team to get an identity, and sometimes adversity can bring a team together. This is such an emotional thing for all of us. We tried to stay focused and just tried to do the best we could."

McHale, Godding and the third captain Mike Herra joined Almeida and others at midfield to light the candles along with the Amesbury captains, coaches and cheerleaders, etc.

"I started crying out there," said Godding. "It was hard to control myself. [What was done] was very classy."

Almeida was also asked about the week and how he was able to cope with it as a human being and as a coach.

"So many people on TV have been talking about how truly insignificant what we do really is and comparison with the horrific things happening this week, but I think it is important for our kids to focus on the healthy things - and the good things this country is all about," said Almeida. "I happen to think our sport is one of them. The kids enjoy it, the community think its important and it's important for the kids to be around each other rather than be by themselves thinking about these types of things."

The following afternoon, the Tewksbury High football team traveled to Everett for their game. Everett didn't have a candle ceremony, but they did hold moment of silence and the national anthem was then performed. Redmen coach Brian Aylward was asked after his team lost what the tragedy did in the small world of high school football as his team tried to prepare for Everett.

"It certainly affected everyone," said Aylward. "If not then you have to check your loyalties as an American. But we were able to go back to business as usual and it was a nice outlook for us to have to do something positive."

And did the team have a hard time focusing on a high school football game while the country was in shambles?

"Once you get through these gates you focus on that," said Aylward. "The kids were able to focus once they got on the football field."

Truly there is a distinction between life, and the life of football and sports. Yes, Brian Aylward is right when he says it was time to get back to normal life, the normal routines - and for him and his team that's by going on the football field and smashing people around.

And yes, Bob Almeida is right when he said it was the right thing to do to get his team together and talk about the situation, instead of being isolated with no one to talk to and a lot of fear and anxiety inside.

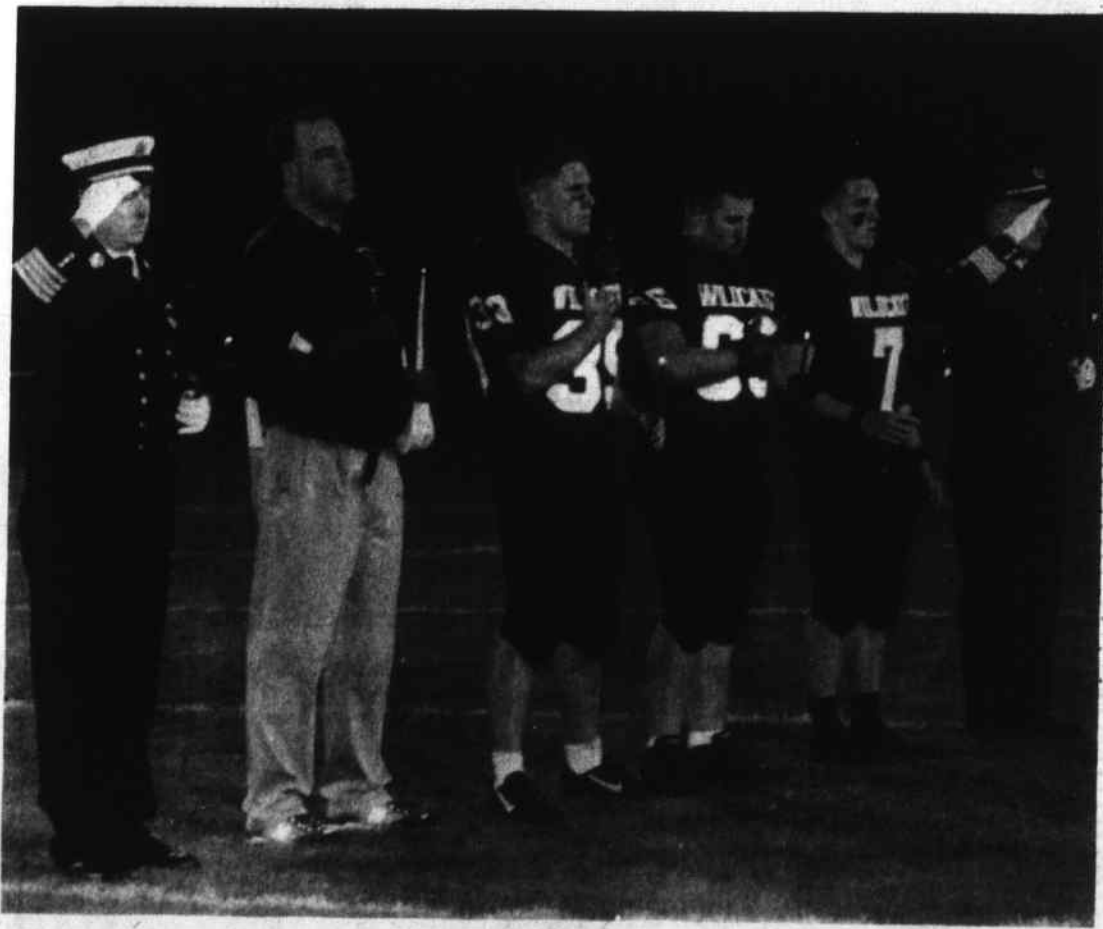

No matter what generation we are all in, what happened this past week will never be forgotten. Speaking to a 17-year-old kid like George Godding, the big, rugged 6-1, 215 pounder who is the star on the football team about the situation really keeps things in perspective. "I started crying out there, it was hard to control myself," he said.

We all were George. That's what being an American is all about. Staying united as a country. Being proud to be an American. Being proud to strap on the helmets, to call the plays, to cheer in the stands, to play in the band, to announce the game, to watch the game, to report on the games, all while the American Flag hovers over all of us - we all do that as proud as we can, as Americans.

And for a time like this when things do get us down, turning to each other and staying united is what it is all about. For high school kids a time like this is certainly not easy. That's why what they do is important - so each and every one of them can get through this ordeal. And for each and every one of us to get through it as best as we can.

Stoneham pilot Jack Mahoney

Most likely to succeed

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

There are not many pilots in the world who received their licenses despite the fact they only have one eye. But, then again, there are not many people in the world that have the vision of a person like Stoneham's John "Jack" Mahoney.

Now 81 years old, Mahoney gave up his license many years ago. However, he still has his vision, which includes staying busy running his own specialized construction company, and about to start his second term as a member of the Board of the Commonwealth Zoological Corporation, and contributing to his community.

The pilots license came after six years as a World War II Veteran in the Army and prior to World War II flying and doing aerial photography with what was then known as the Civilian Air Reserve (now the Civil Air Patrol).

"I held a pilots license since 1946," Mahoney said. "When I went to get my medical certificate, I passed everything."

This was despite the fact that he had lost an eye as the result of a sledding accident when he was seven years old and living in Somerville.

The medical examiner at the time was Dr. Sumner Andrews, a prominent physician who conducted the medical exams for those seeking pilot's licenses in this state. The doctor had Mahoney perform several depth perception tests and the patient did each of them perfectly.

This feat not only allowed Mahoney to get his license, it also got him an invite to participate in a national medical conference. Mahoney recalled that the scientific wisdom of the day usually noted that people with only one eye did not have the depth perception skills of those with the use of both eyes.

The fact that he had a license almost figured into Mahoney's plans for running his construction business, J.F. Mahoney and Sons.

In 1967, the Melrose firm that Mahoney had been working for, decided that that the field of constructing laboratories was not profitable enough for them and they were going to disband the division. It was at that time that Mahoney had STONEHAM RESIDENT, JACK MAHONEY, now 81, is no stranger to hard work and success. He earned his pilot's license despite the fact that he only had one eye. A former WW II aerial photographer, he went on to serve his hometown community.

In a saloon in a Wild Western frontier town, a dog was shot in the foot. It hobbled all the way home, put on a gun belt and limped back, went under the swinging doors and looking over to a group of cowboys. The dog then, "Barked Out," loud and clear, "Aw—right who's the dirty rat who shot my, PAW!"

My cousin Peggy Walsh, joined an order of, cloistered nuns. Except for prayers and singing of hymns, they observed the rule of silence. They were however permitted to say two words every ten years. Peggy's first two words were, "Cell cold." (a room is called a cell). The mother superior duly noted the complaint and promptly forgot it. Ten years passed and Peggy's next two words were, "Food Bad." Those words were ignored too. Standing tall and straight ten years later, Peggy exclaimed, "I Quit!" "Good," the mother superior replied, "you've been nothing but a chronic complainer since you got here!"

Mario DiMino a heavy equipment operator for a construction company made the mistake of marrying a society debutante. Mario's lunch box had one dainty sandwich and a banana. He reminded his wife that one sandwich was not enough for a construction worker. So she proceeded to put in TWO dainty sandwiches in Mario's lunch box. After more complaints, she bought a one pound loaf of Italian Bread, cut it length-wise then filled it with one pound of salami, half pound of American cheese, a sliced tomato and some lettuce. She wrapped it all up, put it in a large brown paper bag and gave it to Mario the next morning. That night she waited in vain for a compliment, when none was forthcoming she asked, "How was your lunch today dear?" "Oh O'Kay I guess, but, I see that you're back to ONE sandwich again!"

Folks, I'm the boss in my house but, Kathy gives the orders. She said to me today, "be a man and do what I tell you to do." ... Kathy showed me the card she got from a drugstore scale. It said, "You're beautiful and you weigh 120 pounds." "Look dear," I told her, "it has your weight wrong too."

Mahoney

made the decision to leave that company and start up his own business.

Within 10 years he had built the business to a point where he and his youngest son were overseeing 20 crews doing jobs throughout New England, New York, New Jersey and Delaware. There were also international jobs in places such as the Caribbean, England and Germany.

"I developed a knack or a technique to approaching and solving problems," Mahoney said. "This made me valuable to salespeople (trying to sell their laboratory products to clients)."

Because of the volume of business, and the distances he was traveling to oversee the work crews, Mahoney considered air travel as a way to get from job to job. However, an airplane would be restrictive to those places close by an airport.

Using his knack to solving problems, Mahoney considered buying a helicopter and learning to fly it.

One of his clients thought it would be a great idea and offered to let Mahoney land on the company's property. However, the client, located in Western Massachusetts also noted that Mahoney would no longer have an excuse for not being on the job when needed.

Mahoney went ahead with his plans but decided against the project after discovering that the only aircraft he could buy would only go slightly faster than his car and would have less weight capacity if materials needed to be transported.

Successful as the business has been, it was not a popular idea with his family when Mahoney first conceived it.

"My first wife, Josephine, was angry," Mahoney recalled. "I had worked out all the details and I didn't ask her."

At the time his oldest son, Gerald, was 10 and one day at the breakfast table, he asked his father what the business would be named, Mahoney said "J.F. Mahoney and Sons."

Gerald replied, "You didn't ask me."

In fact Gerald only worked about one week in the business and now works in California. Mahoney also has a daughter, Susan, who resides in Maine.

As for the younger of the two boys, John, Jr., Mahoney said, "I would not have been able to survive without him."

Although the business is still thriving, Mahoney has cut back and now only works jobs in Southern New England. This includes building and furnishing laboratories in Danvers for Abiomed, the company now known for the first successful artificial heart.

Mahoney is still doing work for the company which needs a design for a way to store alcohol and other wastes until enough is collected to have it taken off-site for disposal.

One of his biggest jobs in the last few years was installing the laboratories in all eight floors at the Massachusetts Department of Public Health Labs in Jamaica Plain. Mahoney calls that job "an agonizing year and a half."

Despite the fact that he has had to battle language problems on jobs in places such as Germany and Puerto Rico, Mahoney has still found time to serve his community of Stoneham.

He claims his public service is all the fault of a neighbor who got tired of hearing Mahoney complain about the condition of town government and told him to "...shut-up and do something about it."

"As a result," Mahoney recalled, "in 1972 or '73 I got on the Personnel Board and it went downhill from there."

Some people who know Mahoney will call him a curmudgeon at times; others call him a pragmatic person.

Birth

STEPHEN AND KIM (STUPPIA) TORRA of Reading announce the birth of their son Brett Michael on August 27, 2001 at the Melrose/Wakefield Hospital. Grandparent honors are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Mike Stuppia of Revere, and Mr. and Mrs. Torra of North Reading. He joins his brother Jared, age one, at home.

However, many will agree with his own self-assessment of the philosophy, "I am committed to the strong support of programs, ideas, and actions that promise growth and stability and improve the quality of life for the residents of the Town of Stoneham."

This is a philosophy that has earned Mahoney the Outstanding Citizen Award from the Chamber of Commerce in 1988 and the Chamber's Citizen of the Year Award in 1990.

Mahoney is the first chairman and the "Father" of Stoneham's "Town Day." He has also served on the Board of Selectmen, The Police Reorganization Study Committee, first chairperson of the Recycling Committee and Solid Waste Advisory Board, and the Finance Advisory Board.

During his time on the Board of Selectmen, Mahoney served as the chairperson in the third year of his term. He is proud of the work he did in a failed attempt to get the Town's assessment to the MBTA reduced.

Presently Mahoney is serving as the chairman of the Government Affairs Committee.

After becoming a widower in 1983, Mahoney met and married his second wife, Barbara (Burnett) in 1987.

Mahoney recalled his first appointment to the Zoological Society Board. In 1998. He had been recruited by state Senator Richard Tisei (R-Wakefield)

it's DIFFERENT By How

and flippantly turned the request down. However, after thinking it over, Mahoney changed his mind and asked for the appointment.

His job on the Board has been to ensure that the Stone Zoo receives the attention it needs to be a "...jewel of a project for this area."

One other achievement for Mahoney, is to have lived up to the prediction of his graduating classmates from Medford Vocational School, Class of 1939, who voted him "Most likely to succeed."

Silent Auction and Faire

If you like a large auction filled with great bargains, surprises, and the feeling of anticipation don't miss the opening silent auction, part of the First Congregational Church (UCC) of Reading's 43rd Olde Redding Faire, Saturday, Sept. 22 at 7:15 p.m.

When the auctioneer's gavel falls that's when you want to be downstairs in the church as the crowd swells and the anticipation builds as folks can't resist bidding on scores of items including gift certificates to your favorite and you reap the rewards.

Be sure to be at the church, Saturday, Sept. 22, 7:15 p.m. to place your bids early and often. Ready for a little rest and relaxation? You've come to the right place for the weekend get-aways and many more gifts you'll want for yourself or friends.

The popular silent auction is just the beginning of this wonderful faire. A great opening to the oldest and one of the largest church fairs in Middlesex County. The spelling of the name: Ye Olde Redding Faire is derived from the original spelling, Redding, the town's name in Colonial times. This fabulous faire has a perennial favorite, a family-style beef supper, served Friday evening, Sept. 28, in two sittings, 5:30 and 7:15 p.m. Please make your reservations early by calling 781-944-4873. Ticket prices: $8 adults, and $3 children under 12.

The Olde Redding Faire is free and fully open to the public. This year's faire hours: Friday, Sept. 28, 5-9 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 29, 10 a.m. - 2:30 p.m. This faire is intergenerational with a midway with children's events and continuous entertainment suitable for all ages. An excellent selection of items, olde and new will be there for you. A colonial town marketplace includes but isn't limited to: books, jewelry, garden shop, crafts, woodcraft table, hand-knit items for children and adults, fresh produce and flowers, more than 3,000 used and nearly-new books and a great white elephant display.

This rain or shine faire brings together members and friends of the First Congregational Church of Reading, and surrounding communities. The church is located at 25 Woburn St. at the intersection of Woburn St. and Sanborn St., behind Reading Town hall. For more information call the First Congregational Church office: 781-944-0205.

by Phyllis Nissen

Celebrating in silence, Redding-style

Rewards aplenty - at your bidding - await you on Saturday, September 22, at 7:15 pm, at the Reading First Congregational Church (UCC) 43rd 'Ye Olde Redding Faire' Silent Auction, a week before the oldest and one of the largest church fairs in Middlesex County.

Thanks to the resourcefulness of the fairest work crew around and the generosity of Reading merchants, bargains range from food to fashion to fertilizer to a whole lot more.

The fair itself begins on Friday, September 28 at 5 pm with a family-style beef supper (two sittings, reservations required - call 781-944-0533 or 781-944-4973) and continues on Saturday the 29th from 10 am to 2:30 pm.

For more information, call the First Congregational Church, 25 Woburn St., Reading, 781-944-0205 or check these pages.

The Cummingsville Connector: Wakefield, Reading, Winchester

"Visitors to Town Hall these days are bound to notice several new faces," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Among those new arrivals is James Nugent, a public health veteran who took over as the town's new health director."

"For the past 19 years Nugent has served in a similar position in Wakefield."

"He is a Certified Health

Officer and is a member of the Massachusetts Health Officers Association.

"I have been in the health field for about 30 years, so I'm practically new at this," he joked.

From S-3

"Nugent, who has called Reading home since 1972, served as the health director there before moving on to Wakefield. In recent years he has remained active in Reading, serving as the chairman of its Board of Health.

Nugent first considered a move to Winchester several years ago.

"The opportunity arose, I believe, two years ago, when [former Health Director Joseph] Tabbi decided to leave, but I was involved in a project that I wanted to finish," he explained. "Then the job became available again, and I was finished with that project, so I applied and was lucky enough to be selected."

"Although he has just taken over the health director post, Nugent said he is already seeing some similarities between Winchester and Wakefield ...

"Nugent said one of the major issues that he will be addressing in the coming months will be the Cummingsville Branch sewer project. The town is currently in negotiations with the Massachusetts Water Resources Administration on that issue.

"Nugent said that he has also met with the town's restaurant inspector to become familiarized with the restaurant inspection program. He is also learning about the town's flu clinics that usually take place in the fall and is also busy working on setting up the town's two hazardous waste collection days...."

The Gerry Connection: Lynnfield, Wakefield, Reading

"The Gerry legacy in Lynnfield began years and years ago when Elbridge Gerry founded the Gerry Cider Mill at 50 Walnut St. in 1872, which operated until 1952," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"It was here that his grandson, Roger H. Gerry was born. Roger, who came to be referred to as 'Mr. Lynnfield' by some, chose to live his entire life in Lynnfield and was a dedicated public servant.

"Sadly, Roger and his wife Betty, who were always together at town meetings, sitting in the same seats year after year, rarely missed any meetings concerning the town, died within days of each other...."

"Roger attended the former Center School in Lynnfield and graduated from Wakefield High School in 1932. From there he went to work for the A.C. Lawrence Leather Company in Peabody, one of the largest tanneries in the country at the time. He was employed by the leather company for 36 years and retired in 1969 as a cost analyst.

"Gerry then began many years of service in the employment of the town. He served as Executive Assistant to the Board of Selectmen, the position now known as Town Administrator and as Town Accountant from 1969 to 1980. When he announced his retirement Gerry said his years at Town Hall were the most interesting and rewarding years of his life.

"However, Gerry's retirement was short-lived. Five years later the Selectmen turned to Gerry for help when

A Town Accountant was needed. He graciously filled in part time from 1985 to 1986.

"Gerry also served the town in other capacities, as a Commissioner of the Lynnfield Center Water District and he also held the position of clerk of the district for many years. Roger also was the representative to the Reading Municipal Light Department Advisory Board, was active with the Republican Town Committee and served as a member of the Town Hall Committee.

"In 1975 the Lynnfield Town Report was dedicated to Gerry and in 1976 he was chosen as the Honorary Chief Marshall of the Lynnfield Bicentennial Parade...."

Reunion 1971

The Everett High School Class of 1971 will hold its 30th Class Reunion on September 22, 2001, Saturday, at King's Grant, Danvers, MA.

Come join us for our 30th Class Reunion. Do you believe that 30 years have gone by? It was a time of bellbottom jeans, long hair, short skirts, fishnet stockings, protests and lots of fun.

History has tried to repeat itself, but we the Class of 1971 have a lot to remember because we lived through it. If you are interested in seeing some familiar faces and want to reminisce about the good old days when life was simple and carefree, contact any of the committee members for more information.

For additional information contact the reunion committee: Joanne Albano, (617) 389-3271, Carl Amici, (617) 387-7034, Jeanne Chanley (Gibson), (617) 389-5640, Stephanie DiPlatzi, (617) 389-4865, Mal Foley (Habeb), (978) 535-5979, Lillian LaRosa, (781) 396-3778, Charlie and Camille (Paolotta) Peluso, (781) 938-1402.

Burlington High School's classes of 1970 and 1971 will be holding a combined reunion on Nov. 24 at the Ramada Inn in Woburn. Invitations will be mailed out shortly.

(For more information, contact Aleta Piantadosi Devaney at Truro722@aol.com, or go to the Message Board at classmates.com.

WOBURN'S JULIE LONGO, a sophomore at Bentley College, scored a goal for the women's soccer team in a 6-4 win over the University of Massachusetts at Lowell.

"The Metro/North fast-pitch softball league for high school players will be starting in September and run for eight Sundays during the fall. The season runs through October 28 with eight double-headers. High school teams or individual players are wanted for the league. Call 781-238-2379 (days) or 781-935-6519 (evenings) for further information.

WILMINGTON'S DEREK MAZZA is back on the field for the Stonehill College football team this Fall, and has rushed for a team-high 108 rushing yards through two games this season.

READING'S ROB OLIVAR is also playing for Stonehill, and he scored on a recent 50-yard run against Pace.

The winners of this year's Woburn Recreation Golf Scramble, held at the Woburn Country Club, were CHRIS SCHINDLER, MIKE HALL, JAMES PAPPAS AND MITCH CLEGG. Runners-up were KEVIN MCLAUGHLIN, JOHN VENTOLINO, BRYAN WIEBOLD AND KEN NEE.

Special needs students and their families are invited to attend a TOP SOCCER program, which will be held at the site of the old Fort Devens on Route 2 on September 23, from 10 am to 2:30 pm. TOP Soccer is designed to give special needs students a true soccer experience with tons of fun and learning. There are no restrictions on age or ability. Any special needs student is welcome to join. To find out more information call Ed Celli at 978-658-7402.

The Plymouth State College women's tennis team contains two locals this year - READING'S HOLLY MILLS, a sophomore, and KATIE OLSEN, also a sophomore from READING.

Need some clues to help out with the above-mentioned trivia question? The player's initials are A.G..

The Northeast Baseball League will begin play next year, with all games being played at the Revere High baseball field. The league will feature players age 13-16 from towns like Wakefield and Stoneham, and all players will use wooden bats, rather than aluminum. For more information call Cathy Bagnera at 781-289-0847.

Three local football players will be on the roster of the Northeastern University football team this fall when the team takes to the gridiron - READING'S EXCELL WALKER, WINCHESTER'S TOM DICARLO, and WILMINGTON'S ROBBY FRENCH.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The player was Althea Gibson, who also became the first African-American, male or female, to reign as champion of the U.S. Open, taking both honors in 1957.

NATIONAL ALCOHOL & DRUG ADDICTION RECOVERY MONTH

To help Massachusetts better understand that recovery from addiction to alcohol and other drugs is a reality and that treatment and community support systems are an investment. Massachusetts Organization for Addiction Recovery is hosting a community forum to be held at the State House on September 26. The celebration begins at 8 am with a Recovery Month walk from City Hall Plaza to the State House.

Boston Mayor Thomas Menino will give greetings. Activities will include a performance by the Improbable Players (a performing arts group comprised of individuals in recovery), and a dialogue about The National Treatment Plan featuring the State of Mass. Associate Department of Public Health Commissioner Deborah Klein Walker and other policymakers.

Celebrating recovery is essential to breaking down stigma and opening doors for individuals and families to seek help.

"Fortunately drug and alcohol addiction is a treatable illness. Treatment benefits the individual patient as well as his or her family. Eventually, treatment can lead to recovery and that recovery can restore the same individuals - families and the community - that the disease had affected," said H. Westley Clark, Director of the Center for Substance Abuse Treatment.

For more information on the Boston Event, or to register and join, please call Maryanne Frangules at 617-423-6627.

Dental innovations benefit patients

Technology today is changing our everyday lives. Many people, however, aren't aware that technology also is impacting dentistry in new and exciting ways. Cutting-edge innovations in dental instruments are requiring less time in the dental chair, causing less discomfort and creating satisfying results. One breakthrough instrument, called CEREC, allows dentists to quickly restore damaged teeth with natural colored ceramic fillings, saving patients time and inconvenience.

What is CEREC?

CEREC is an acronym for Chair side Economical Restoration of Esthetic Ceramics. Translated, it means that a dentist can economically restore damaged teeth in a single appointment using high-quality ceramic material that matches the natural color of other teeth.

How does the instrument work?

CEREC uses CAD/CAM (Computer Aided Design/Computer Aided Manufacturing) technology, incorporating a camera, computer and milling machine in one instrument. The dentist uses a special camera to take an accurate picture of the damaged tooth. This optical impression is transferred and displayed on a color computer screen, where the dentist uses CAD technology to design the restoration. Then CAM takes over and automatically creates the restoration while the patient waits. Finally, the dentist bonds the new restoration to the surface of the old tooth. The whole process takes about an hour.

What does this mean for a patient?

A tooth-colored restoration means no more silver fillings discoloring smiles. The filling is natural looking, compatible with tissue in the mouth, anti-abrasive and plaque resistant. Dentists no longer need to create temporaries or take impressions and send them to a lab. Because of this, the traditional second visit has been eliminated.

The CEREC has over a decade of clinical research and documentation to support the technology. The restorations have been proven precise, safe and effective.

How can I find out if this option is for me?

Call the office of Dr. Paul F. Caselle, D.D.S. at 978-657-4550. We will be happy to answer your questions on this new technology.

Hospice care seeks volunteers

Hospice Care, Inc. is a non-profit organization serving patients with life-limiting illness and their families. Hospice volunteers perform a vital role in augmenting hospice services by providing companionship to patients, respite time for family members, or help with errands.

Volunteers may also focus on providing bereavement support to family members. Our volunteers come from diverse backgrounds and range in age from their 20's to their 80's. Their common bond is a desire to share their time and compassion with others. A strong need exists for daytime volunteers, but help is also needed during evenings and weekends.

Join us in this special opportunity to contribute to others in your community. No previous experience is necessary. Hospice care, Inc. provides training and ongoing support. The next training session will begin on October 9. For more information, please call Karen Potter at (781) 279-4100.

Local residents honored by Northern Essex

Raymond Landry of North Reading and Dr. Mary Ampola of Lynnfield were recently honored by Northern Essex Community College for their 20 years of dedication to teaching and lecturing on genetic disorders and birth defects. The two were honored for their commitment to students in the college's human service and health programs and agency staff in the Merrimack Valley.

Landry, retired from the North Reading School system, currently teaches at the Presentation of Mary Academy in Methuen. He often lectured on how to provide support services to individuals with disabilities.

Dr. Ampola, Chief of the Division of Metabolism for the Department of Pediatrics at New England Medical Center in Boston, has provided educational seminars and current concepts in prevention of birth defects.

Mary DiGiovanni, professor and coordinator of the human service program at Northern Essex Community College, presented the awards.

"Horses Helping Horses"

If your horse could talk, he would tell you to put him on the trailer and take him to Bradley Palmer State Park in Topsfield, for the seventh annual "Horses Helping Horses" Trail Ride.

Scheduled for September 22 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., the event benefits the Equine Centre at the MSPCA Nevins Farm in Methuen. One of the nation's only "open door" shelters, the Farm never turns away an animal in need.

"Horses Helping Horses" is open to anyone who wants to support the Equine Centres programs by raising pledges. Participants range from horses and riders to carriages and people who simply prefer to "hoof it" on their way two feet. The full ride follows a marked trail approximately five miles long, and participants can elect to complete the entire length or just a portion.

Flash, a 10-year old Clydesdale rescued by the Nevins Farm in one of the worst cruelty cases in recent years, is featured guest in this year's ride. When he arrived at Nevins Farm in early 2000, Flash was hundreds of pounds underweight and too weak to stand. He was rushed by Equine ambulance to Tufts Veterinary Hospital where he remained hospitalized for five weeks. Flash's ordeal had an unexpected "silver lining," however, when veterinary technician Darlene Staplins adopted him and continued his lengthy rehabilitation in her loving home.

Last year's ride raised roughly $5,000. Area riders, like Kathryn O'Brien of Ipswich, are already gearing up for this year's ride by starting to collect pledges.

The ride is a critical source of funds for the Nevins Farm's equine ambulance service. The ambulance program, which is available to horse owners through their veterinarians 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, provides transportation for horses in emergency situations to veterinary hospitals throughout New England.

Casey at bat in Stoneham

"A new face was on board to welcome Stoneham public school students back," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Wakefield resident Joseph Casey has been hired as the new Assistant Superintendent of Schools for Stoneham, replacing Dr. Elizabeth Keroack who left to join the Malden Public Schools."

"Casey was one of 34 applicants to express interest in the position. A screening committee appointed by the School Committee waded through those applications and narrowed the pool to nine for interviews. From there, the number was whittled to four and subsequently to two who faced the School Committee in public interviews."

"Casey was the K-12 Director of Curriculum and Technology for the Georgetown Public Schools. He planned to start his new position in Stoneham on or about Sept. 1. Since he lives next door, Casey planned to spend some time learning the ropes during August."

"According to School Superintendent Dr. Joseph Connelly, both Casey and his challenger, Richard Robbat of Lexington, who is the K-12 Director of Curriculum for the Gardner Public Schools, were both strong candidates."

"We were very impressed and satisfied with the qualifications of the two finalists," Connelly said.

"While both shared strong backgrounds in curriculum and school building administration, Casey's expertise in technology helped sway the decision in his favor..."

Right on the money in Wakefield

"To coincide with the 20th anniversary of the opening of the 1st Educational Savings Branch at Wakefield High School, The Savings Bank has announced the creation of the Donald E. Garrant Foundation," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Each year, the Donald E. Garrant Foundation will fund programs for Wakefield Public Schools grades K through 12 which focus on money, banking, borrowing, investing and economics. The Foundation has been established in response to recent studies that indicate that only 29 percent of parents have provided their children with educational materials that teach them about financial responsibility. The funds will fund programs to augment public school efforts in this area."

"The Foundation is created in memory of the former Bank President who joined The Savings Bank in 1969. He became President and Chief Executive Officer in February 1981. Always a proponent of education in general, and banking education in particular, having taught courses in economics and bank taxation, Mr. Garrant started plans for the high school branch in 1979, working with then Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Stephen Maio. The student-run branch at Wakefield High School, the first ever in the United States, officially opened for business as the 1st Educational Savings Branch on April 6, 1981. The student bank has become a model for similar endeavors, not only in Massachusetts, but also across the country..."

"The Donald E. Garrant Foundation, celebrating a commitment to financial education, expects to issue its first awards this fall."

'Excellence Award' in Tewksbury

"Out of 60 applications from various student councils within the state, Tewksbury Memorial High School's Student Council was one of fifteen to receive the prestigious Excellence Award," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"The award, presented during the Student Council Conference at the Sheraton Resort in Hyannis, is given based upon the accomplishments of the Student Council."

"A book detailing information about the T.M.H.S. Student Council, its operations, leadership responsibilities, community service and other items, was submitted to the Massachusetts

BATHING YOUR DOG

Dogs should be bathed no more than once a month because their skin is susceptible to dryness and irritation. Some breeds need little or no bathing due to thick double coats (Samoyeds), or coats with water-repelling properties (Saint Bernards) that groom well with regular brushing or dry shampoos. For other dogs, hypoallergenic shampoos that contain no soap, perfume, or dye and produce little gentle clean while adding softness and body. Conditioning shampoos work like all in one human shampoos, eliminating the need for conditioning. Oatmeal shampoo soothes skin and reduces itching, while protein shampoo gives body and fights dryness.

Flea-and-tick shampoo kills parasites on contact, but be sure to rinse thoroughly so the dog cannot lick remaining chemicals from its coat.

P.S. Use medicated shampoos, designed to treat skin conditions like dermatitis, only at the vet's recommendation.

Whenever you have a question about the care and feeding of your dog or other pet, take the time to talk to our professional staff at BLUESTONE VETERINARY CLINIC 134 Water Street, Wakefield, 781-245-4404. Friendly communication is the best way we know to do our job. Appointments are available by calling us Mon. thru Fri.

Association of Student Councils (MASC). The MASC uses the book's information to recommend student council awards in one of three categories: Honor Council, Medalist and Honorable Mention.

"Not all who apply receive an award. Tewksbury Memorial High School was in the top fifteen, which means that its Student Council was at or above the 'medalist' status."

"It took a long time to put it together," said student Michael Sitar. He informed the School Committee of the prestigious award at its meeting.

"According to Sitar, it took approximately a year to create the book that the T.M.H.S. submitted to the MASC."

"The outline for the goes golfing in case he gets a HOLE-IN-ONE. ... Officer John Daigle responded to call that a man was lying down alongside of a storm drain. He radioed back, "I found the man and I suspect, SEWER-SIDE."

Folks we trust banks with our money but they don't trust us with their Fountain Pens — they are securely chained to the wall. ...

Excellence Award includes its history, community service goals and expectations for each individual council," said Dolly Sullivan, the Assistant Principal Advisor to the Student Council.

"Student Cathy Lamothe was chairperson for the project, compiling the information in book form. Student Matthew Garcia is the outgoing President of the Student Council, and Beth Baker is the treasurer."

"They look to see what we've accomplished over the year," said Kirimi Papp, a former Northeast Regional Council President. She said that the MASC has a set criteria for judging the accomplishments of the individual councils.

"The book is based on those requirements and divided into sections. Points are allotted by MASC for each section. Twenty-five points are allotted each for the sections on the background of the council and the philosophy of the school and community. Points are also awarded for different student council operations. The final tally of points for each school determines the award category...."

JFK Museum offers free admission

The Museum at the John F. Kennedy Library will offer free admission through Sunday, September 30 to provide Boston area residents and visitors a place for reflection and remembrance during this national tragedy.

PLEASE NOTE: The waived admission does NOT apply to the special exhibition Jacqueline Kennedy: The White House Years - Selections from the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum that opens this weekend.

The John F. Kennedy Library was organized in 1964, in the sad days following the death of President Kennedy. From the start, it was the dream of Jacqueline Kennedy that the library would be a place for reflection and remembrance, where people could search for historic truth, learn more about politics and government, and reflect on the need to serve the public in some way.

The Museum at the John F. Kennedy Library is open 9-5. Parking is free. JFK Stop on T Red Line. Located on Columbia Point in Boston, next to UMASS/Boston Campus. For more information, call (617) 929-4500.

Elegant construction

THIS MAGNIFICENT 3300 sq.ft. Colonial is situated on a quiet cul de sac and boasts a 6+ acre lot of conservation land.

In Reading, new construction is a very limited commodity. Quality new construction is even more scarce. This magnificent Center Entrance Colonial was built with the discriminating buyer in mind. As you enter the front foyer you are immediately taken with the elegant bridal staircase, which curves upward and is bordered by custom wainscoting which by itself took a master craftsman months to complete. The oak stairs glisten from the sunlight streaming in the huge Palladian window. A gorgeous ceramic tile floor leads you into the gorgeous gourmet kitchen with its rich granite counters and birch wood cabinets. A gas countertop grille and dining area adjacent to sliders that lead out to a deck only serve to add to this wonderful space. Step up to the 24 X 24 great room with cathedral ceiling, remote control gas fireplace and numerous half-wall windows and you will find a room that is wired for sound suitable for entertaining or just relaxing with the family. There is also an adjacent tile bath added for convenience.

The first floor library is also a great opportunity for the home business or computer room. Complete with built-in bookshelves, wainscoting and red oak floors, you'll be reminded of some of the classic detailing of yesteryear.

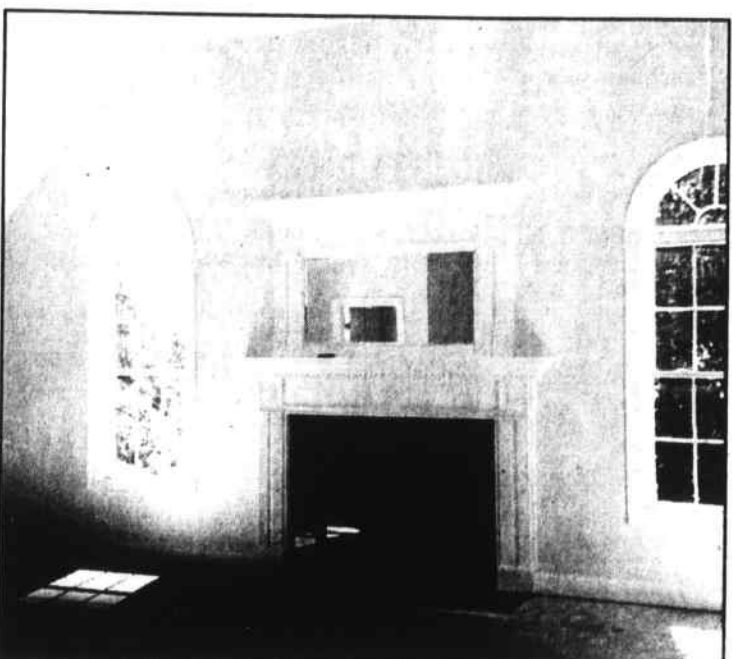

Upstairs is the master bedroom suite the vaulted ceiling and fan adds to the feeling of spaciousness. This like the great room is wired for sound. With its private Jacuzzi bathroom and huge walk-in you will always feel as though you are at a "five star" resort in your own home.

The third floor has also been finished with skylights and a bathroom. What super space for an au-paire suite or teens or game room!

You want privacy? This colonial is situated on a quiet cul-de-sac minutes from routes 128 and 93 yet all you can hear are the birds on your 6+ acres of conservation land. Hiking and nature watching are just a couple of options on this massive lot, which you don't find too often only 12 miles north of Boston. 3300+ square feet of elegance awaits some fortunate buyer in this 9 room, 3.5 bath, and 4 bedroom homes. Listed with Stephen Conroy, CBR, GRI of Century 21 Boardwalk R. E. Corp for $779,900, it is near completion and ready for occupancy. There is still time to choose colors. For a private viewing call Stephen Conroy @ (781) 944-7820, ext. 238.

THE SPACIOUS GOURMET Kitchen features granite countertops birch cabinets, gas countertop grill, and a dining area with sliders to deck.

THE VAULTED CEILING first floor great room features remote control gas fireplace and exquisite two-tiered mantel with mirror.

THE CUSTOM CRAFTED winding bridal staircase is a signature of this quality local builder who has been featured in Architectural Digest magazine.

Save money in your bath

Looking for ways to save water - and money?

Start by looking in your bathroom.

"About 75% of the water you consume indoors each day is used in your bathroom," said Raymond J. Raposa, executive director of the New England Water Works Association, the region's oldest and largest organization of water works professionals.

So it's especially important to conserve water in your bathroom any way you can, especially by finding and fixing leaks.

"Your toilet, the major water-using appliance in your home, is often the source of leaking water," said Raposa.

A leaky toilet can be detected by listening for a "running" or trickling sound at night.

Some toilet leaks, however, are silent, without tell-tale dripping sounds.

To check for these "silent" leaks, remove the lid from the tank, add several drops of food coloring, then wait for 15 minutes, said Raposa.

Housing market shows signs of slowing in Massachusetts

Sales of single-family homes continued at a steady pace across Massachusetts this spring, however weakness in the labor market and declining consumer confidence have started to affect housing demand in several communities around the state, according to a report issued today by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR). In the second quarter, detached single-family home sales declined 6.4 percent compared to the same period a year ago, falling from 11,850 units sold in the spring quarter of 2000 to 11,092 in the April-June period this year, while condominium sales increased 0.7 percent, from 3,380 units sold in the second quarter last year to 3,405 in the comparable quarter of 2001.

"The slower pace of home sales this spring is indicative of an overall softening in consumer spending throughout the economy," said MAR President David M. Walsh. "Concerns over job security and weakness in other economic sectors have had many households nervous about overextending themselves financially, and that's pushed some buyers to the sidelines. But there's still plenty of confidence in the housing market and activity remains strong by historic standards."

Data from the MAR report confirms this assertion, as the 14,497 detached single-family homes and condos sold in the second quarter of 2001 amount to the fifth highest residential sales total on record for a spring quarter in the Bay State.

Most regional markets of the state also saw healthy activity in the second quarter, with some observing improved sales over the past year. In the detached single-family home market, sales on the South Shore increased 16.3 percent in the second quarter of 2001 over the same period last year, and in the greater Fall River-New Bedford area sales rose 2.9 percent this spring from the second quarter of 2000. Elsewhere, sales fell modestly by 3.6 percent in the West and 5.8 percent in Worcester County, but more significant declines occurred in the Northeast (-7.2%) and greater Boston regions (-20.8%).

In the condominium market, the sales results were similar as the Southeast and South Shore regions enjoyed second quarter sales growth of 13 percent and 28 percent respectively, while the Central region also reported a 5 percent sales gain over the April-June quarter last year. Additionally, sales fell by just six units from year ago levels in the Northeast and West regions and decreased a modest 5 percent in greater Boston between second quarters of 2000 and 2001.

Sales data for Cape Cod was unavailable for both housing markets due to a conversion with the local MLS system. "The fact that mortgage rates have been below 7 1/2 percent all year and selling prices are beginning to stabilize, especially for detached single-family homes, has given the market a lift and allowed the housing industry to avoid a significant slowdown thus far," Walsh stated. "The frenzied sales pace of the past few years may be over," he added, "but business hasn't dried up. In fact, the adjustments we're now seeing suggest a market more favorable to buyers."

Among the market conditions that signify a more normal sales pace, the MAR's quarterly housing report shows that both the inventory of homes for sale and average market time for listings is up measurably from year ago levels, while average selling prices have started to moderate after eight consecutive quarters of double-digit home price appreciation.

Specifically, single-family property listings are up 6.1 percent across the state, from a monthly average of 24,605 homes for sale in the second quarter of 2000 to 31,412 in the comparable quarter this year. It's the first significant increase in market listings from year-to-year in 11 quarters. In addition, the statewide average days on market before a home sells has increased by nearly three weeks in the past year, from 108 days in the spring quarter last year to 127 days in the second quarter of 2001. In some areas however, properties are taking as much as three months longer to sell than just a year ago.

While home prices are still on the rise across Massachusetts, appreciation rates are beginning to slow in a number of areas, particularly for detached single-family homes. In fact, the statewide average selling price for detached homes rose by a rather modest 7.2 percent in the second quarter, from $284,891 in the April-June period last year to $305,454 in the same quarter this year. It's the smallest annual quarter-to-quarter gain in selling price since the fourth quarter of 1998 when the average price rose 5.6 percent. Regionally, selling prices increased in all areas of the state in the spring quarter, with the Northeast, South Shore and West reporting 5-7 percent appreciation, and larger 12-16 percent price gains noted elsewhere.

With sales volume up from year ago levels in the condominium market, double-digit price increases were still the norm. The statewide average selling price for condos even topped $200,000 for the first time, climbing 21.3 percent from an average of $173,322 in the second quarter of 2000 to $210,258 in the same three-month period this year. Regional price gains ranged from 10-11 percent in the West and Central regions to 25-31 percent in greater Boston and the South Shore.
